JOB AID BILL IS APPROVED BY SENATE GROUP

Measure Provides Half Billion Public Works Bond Issue

OPPOSED BY HOOVER Committee Fails to Give Consideration to Gar- ner Relief Bill

Washington—(P)—The Democratic unemployment relief bill, providing for a $500,000,000 public works bond issue was approved today by the senate banking committee.

The bill also provides for increasing the borrowing power of the reconstruction corporation by $1,500,000,000 for loans on self-liquidating construction projects.

The committee voted, however, to eliminate provision for loans to competing private industries.

President Hoover has opposed the Democratic proposal for a $500,000,000 bond issue, but has approved in principle the remainder of the program.

The committee yesterday approved as a separate bill, the Democratic proposal for a $300,000,000 fund for loans in relief of destitution, and an attempt was to be made in the senate today to get an agreement for its consideration.

The senate committee voted 7 to 4 in favor of the Democratic Wagner bill including the bond issue program. It agreed to cut out of the Wagner bill provision for loans to limited dividend housing corporations.

Provision Retained

Provision was retained in the bill for allocation of $40,000,000 from the reconstruction corporation for financing agricultural projects.

While considering the various relief measures, the committee gave no consideration to the gigantic bill sponsored by Speaker Garner, which passed the house yesterday.

Meanwhile, Chairman Foul of the house rules committee, today told the house he would call up the administration's home loan discount bank bill for consideration Friday.

The home loan bank bill is one of the important proposals on President Hoover's relief program. It would create from 8 to 12 banks with a capitalization of not less than $5,000,000 each.

The Garner plan was put through by an almost solid Democratic house vote with the aid of house insurgents. The roll call showed 218 for it, 182 against. Bound by agreement in party caucus to support the bill, all Democrats but ten supported the speaker.

Heeding President Hoover's denunciation of the bill as a "gigantic pork barrel," all but 21 of the Republicans voted against it. Though the outcome was inevitable, the latter, involving a total outlay of $2,500,000,000, calls for $100,000,000 to be given outright by the federal government in relief of destitution; $1,000,000,000 expansion of the reconstruction corporation, and $1,500,000,000 of public works, the money to be secured by a bond issue based on a gasoline tax.

The president's $1,500,000,000 plan for expanding the lending power of the reconstruction unit was being studied in the senate banking committee today, along with the larger Democratic relief plan and the administration supported bill to create a system of home loan discount banks.

Succeeds Insull

Direction of vast Insull industrial and utility interests passed to James Simpson, above, former chairman of the board of Marshall Field and Co., Chicago, when Samuel Insull resigned as chairman of the boards of the Commonwealth Edison Co., People's Gas, Light and Coke Co., and Public Service Co. of Northern Illinois.

INSULL QUILTS RAIL INTERESTS

Also Resigns from 52 Other Corporations — Federal Audit Being Made

Chicago—(P)—Samuel Insull has withdrawn from all his rail interests and 52 other corporations and made complete his abdication from the vast utility empire he founded, it was learned today. Meanwhile a federal court audit was being made of the Insull Utility Investments Inc., to determine if there is any personal liability of officers and directors.

Should such liability in management of the half billion dollar trust company during the last two years be shown, Federal Judge Walter Lindley yesterday told attorneys for investors, civil action should be taken to recover from the officers "such funds as could be obtained."

Almost at the same time Judge Lindley was revealing the audit was in progress, Insull was preparing and signing the resignations which removed him from the control of the Chicago Rapid Transit Lines, Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad, the Chicago Aurora, and Elgin railroad, in addition to the 52 others.

Earlier in the week he had relinquished the reins of his three large Chicago area operating companies and their interests to James Simpson, head of Marshall Field and Co., and yesterday his resignation as co-president of large holding and trust companies was accepted by Judge Lindley.

The man who rose from the obscurity of an English immigrant secretary to Thomas Edison at 72 years of age has severed his connections with his whole family of corporations, most of which he founded himself or helped build in his rise to become one of the most important figures in the history of American utilities.

Today it was reported Insull's banking and other creditors have decided to vote him a pension of $18,000 a year and from persons close to the former magnate said he would sail for Europe soon with Mrs. Insull to rest from the strain of the last few months in which he sought to save his huge holding companies from receivership.

He owns a residence in Reading, England, on the Thames, but it was said he would first spend some time in Paris.

EASE DEMANDS TO CUT TAXES, PLEA

Taxpayers Must Lessen Requests for Service, Alliance Warns

Madison—(P)—If Wisconsin taxpayers want the cost of government reduced, they must relinquish their demands for certain services, the Wisconsin Taxpayers' Alliance said today in a bulletin.

Taxpayers desire a reduction of state, county, local and school expenses but they must take steps to indicate their desire to the proper officials, the alliance said.

"The depression has now lasted for nearly three years," the alliance said. "During this period the public has continued to demand extension in all directions of the activities of government. The officials of the government have furnished the service demanded of them. In the meantime the ability to pay for governmental service has greatly declined."

"Public officials will yield to the strongly expressed wishes of their constituents. Therefore the demand for lowered taxes and decreased expenditures must come from the public. Taxpayers must now curb their desires for luxurious public services. The public can express itself effectively only through a well organized, well informed, vigorous and determined citizenship."

COPS VIGILANT AS BONUS ARMY RANKS SWELL

Nearly 10,000 Veterans Expected to Be at Capital by End of Week

Washington—(P)—With resources for feeding the thousands of veterans here about exhausted, Police Superintendent Glassford today prepared a notice to the bonus seekers that the authorities tomorrow will gladly furnish transportation out of the city to those of those who are ready to return home.

Washington—(P)—Police kept constant touch today with federal authorities as the numbers of veterans here seeking immediate payment of the soldier's bonus continued to grow. There were reports, apparently well founded but unconfirmed by officials, that army posts in the vicinity of Washington had taken precautionary protective moves in view of the mounting numbers of veterans in the city. Police estimated that nearly 10,000 would be in the capital by the end of the week.

Officers attached to Bolling field, the army airport adjacent to one of the veterans encampments, were asked not to leave their reservation after noon today. Their wives were advised not to leave the post unescorted.

The inhospitable reception they received at the hands of police and capital building officials when they applied for permission to parade there, today caused the leaders of the Communist organization, the Workers Ex-Servicemen's League, to cancel their demonstration for today. Vice President Curtis and Speaker Garner directed that they be given no permit to parade on the capital grounds. Metropolitan police had granted permission for the radicals to parade in the city, but changed their minds after the Curtis-Garner action.

The agitators arrested

The Communists organization claiming membership of 2,000 among the veterans in the city, were estimated by police to have an actual membership of some 250 out of nearly 8,000 veterans in the encampment. Several of the agitators were arrested and taken to station houses yesterday by the veterans themselves. Police advised them to leave the city and some were known to have left.

The league now plans to go to the capital Friday and attempt to send petitions to the vice-president and speaker. Since they have no parade permit, their numbers necessarily will be very limited.

Representative Patman (D., Tex.) told newspapermen that besides the 145 signers of the bonus petition he had assurances that 80 other house members will vote for the bill making a total of 225, more than the majority needed for passage.

Patman also said he received today three money orders from Texas for a total of $65 which he is turning over to a committee of the bonus marchers to help pay expenses.

HOOBES ORDERED AWAY

Cincinnati, Ohio—(P)—Jeff Davis, "king of hoboes," sent word to "Jungles" and "tanks" throughout the nation today for hoboes to stay out of Washington, and give World War veterans free rein in seeking payment on their bonus certificates.

The orders are to be passed by word of mouth, circulated by hoboes reached here while passing through to east or west, north or south. His instruction, Davis said, followed word from Washington that Dan Brien, calling himself a hobo, had issued a call for the wanderers to gather in Washington and demand "good food and clean beds."

"The hoboes are cautioned; the hoboes are satisfied," Davis protested. "We believe the soldiers should get their bonus. We don't want to see the soldiers become hoboes, too, but we don't want to see any body else butting in."

AMELIA AND HUSBAND WELCOMED IN ITALY

Rome—(P)—Amelia Earhart Putnam received a warm official welcome from General Italo Balbo, the air minister, as she emerged from the cabin of an army plane which brought her from Milan.

Premier Mussolini tonight will give a dinner in honor of Miss Earhart, but General Balbo will preside in his stead. Tomorrow the premier will receive Mrs. Putnam and her husband and the pope probably will give them an audience later.

Former Prosecutor Faces Arraignment For Murder

Two Former Convicts Also Accused of Slaying California Widow

San Francisco—(P)—Frank J. Egan, for 11 years San Francisco public defender, faced arraignment in superior court today on a charge of murder.

With him to be arraigned were Verne Doran, convict and former Egan chauffeur, and Albert Tinnin, an ex-convict formerly employed by Egan. All three were indicted by the grand jury Saturday charged with responsibility for the death of Mrs. Jessie Scott Hughes, 59-year-old widow and reported benefactress of Egan.

Egan surrendered to police yesterday, ending an intensive search which began Saturday. Egan, Doran and Tinnin were indicted that day following Doran's purported statement to police the slaying of Mrs. Hughes was guided by Egan and carried out by the two former felons.

Doran said in his asserted confession that Egan was hard pressed for money and was the beneficiary of Mrs. Hughes' life insurance and a legatee in her will. The former chauffeur said he and Tinnin were coerced by Egan into killing Mrs. Hughes under a threat of being railroaded back to prison. Doran has since been sent to prison for robbery and then returned here while Tinnin's parole was revoked.

In his statement Doran told of running a heavy automobile over Mrs. Hughes' body and then hurling the body into a street to make it appear she was the victim of a hit-run automobile driver.

No hint was given by Egan concerning his movements while a fugitive. He slept last night in a cell at the county jail.

The grand jury convened last night with the expressed intention of considering whether Vincent Hallihan, Egan's attorney, obstructed justice by keeping Egan out of the way of police from Saturday to Tuesday. Hallihan, called before the jury, declined to testify on the ground that he might incriminate himself and the jury adjourned without taking action.

DRYS IN SENATE MAY ATTACK PARTY PLANK

Republican Group Meets in Borah's Office to Discuss Action

Washington—(P)—Republican prohibitionists of the senate talked about making a concerted attack on the party's proposed resubmission plank yesterday, but reached no agreement.

Eight of them gathered, without previous announcement, in the office of Senator Borah of Idaho, stirring a lot of speculation. But when the discussion was over they indicated no prospect of unified action by them at the Chicago convention, and Borah himself reiterated his decision not to go.

Meanwhile James R. Garfield, who is chairman of the platform drafting committee, left for Chicago with the tentative resubmission plank which a majority of the G. O. E. congressional leaders have approved. He held final conference with party chiefs, but apparently did not call again on President Hoover, who has kept silence on the prohibition issue confronting the party.

The general conclusion in the capital, however, is that the president's stand has been indicated by the presence of Postmaster General Brown and administration leaders in the meetings which favored the resubmission plank.

In Borah's gathering were Smoot of Utah, Robinson of Indiana, Steiwer of Oregon, Thomas of Idaho, Capper of Kansas, Golsborough of Maryland, and Vandenberg of Michigan. Some already have declared themselves for prohibition, including Steiwer who some time ago came out for resubmission.

Robinson has given Garfield a prohibition plank draft which took the stand on resubmission proposed must be accompanied by a substitute plan and repledging the party to observance and enforcement of the eighteenth amendment so long as it remains in force.

MEANS' TRIAL OPENS TODAY AT WASHINGTON

Washington—(P)—The trial of Gaston B. Means on an indictment charging embezzlement and grand larceny of $194,660 from Mrs. Edward B. McLean in an alleged Lindbergh ransom fraud began today in the District of Columbia Supreme court.

Selection of a jury was delayed by arguments over whether Catholics would be prejudiced either for or against the testimony of a priest who figured in strange negotiations between Means and Mrs. McLean, after she hired him to recover the infant kidnapped on March 1 and later found dead.

COLLECTION OF TAX ON CHECKS IS UP TO BANKS

Payments to Be Made at End of Each Month—Charged Against Accounts

Washington—(P)—Collection of the new 2 cent tax on checks, drafts and similar instruments which goes into effect on June 21 will cause no inconvenience to bank depositors of the country, but will be handled entirely by the banks.

The internal revenue bureau said today the banks would pay the tax to the treasury at the end of each month. During the period, the banks will keep count of the number of checks drawn by each depositor and at the end of the month enter the charge against his account and enclose a statement in the depositor's cancelled checks. Counter checks which are cashed by the depositor at the bank are not taxed.

The new postal rates go into effect next month. The higher rates on second class mail become effective on July 1 while the 3-cent rate on first class mail is effective July 6.

The revenue bureau announced the effective dates of the various revenue producing provisions of the Revenue Act of 1932 as follows: Income tax act—Jan. 1, 1932. Additional estate taxes—June 6, 1932, after 5 p. m. Gift taxes—June 6, 1932, after 5 p. m. Manufacturers' excise taxes—June 21, 1932. Miscellaneous taxes—June 21, 1932.

Tax on use of boats—July 1, 1932. The manufacturer, producer and importer of the following articles are required to make returns and pay taxes under the new act: Lubricating oil, brewer's wort, grape concentrate, automobile, can, chewing gum, toilet preparations, fur, jewelry, radios, refrigerators, sporting goods, firearms, cameras, matches, soft drinks, tires and tubes and gasoline.

The bureau announced that the following articles of services are also subject to the tax: Telephone and telegraph messages, electric energy, bank checks, lease of safety boxes, admission fees, transportation of oil by pipe lines, and the users of pleasure boats.

ORIENTAL PAIR HELD FOR MURDER OF CHILD

Los Angeles—(P)—A sensational story of an illicit Oriental affair was written in police records today with the arrest on a murder charge of Mrs. Ayako Kanda, 31, wife of a wealthy Japanese, and the man with whom she eloped, Koji Hamamoto, 33.

The pair was charged with the murder of the woman's 4-year-old daughter, Yuki Kanda. The pair confessed to the slaying, police said and led them to the grave of the child.

Police said the couple explained the child died from inhaling gas by which it was planned all three would die. They said the gas only killed them. The motive for the attempted suicide attempt was not made clear.

BIG DEFICIENCY SEEN IN BUDGET OF FRANCE

Paris—(P)—Louis Germain-Martin, minister of finance, said today that France is confronted with a serious financial situation and that probably the 1932 budget deficit will be between six billion and seven billion francs.

He called attention to the probability that Germany will not reparation payments which the Hoover mission return exact, and said that the government intends to take a measure for major reduction of expenditures and a revision of administrative costs.

He said it may be necessary to balance the budget with a minimum of sacrifice.

DOCTORS TESTIFY IN CANCER CLINIC CASE

Chicago—(P)—Testimony of physicians in refusal to defend testimony was continued by the state today as the trial of Lester Tilton, formerly of Clinton, Iowa, and two of his associates in a cancer clinic was drawing to a close.

Yesterday four physicians, among them two from Illinois, were placed on the stand as expert witnesses after the defense rested. The two were Dr. William H. Perry of St. Louis, Ill., and Dr. Edward C. Turner of Savannah.

Savannah and the other two defendants are charged with violating the medical practice act in connection with the clinic's operation.

Candidates

Walter J. Kohler of Kohler, today was named the conservative Republican candidate for governor, and John B. Chapple of Ashland (lower) candidate for U. S. senator, at the state convention at Madison.

TEACHER CONFESSES EXTORTION DEMAND

Platteville Girl Bound Over for Trial After Threat to Physician

Platteville, Wis.—(P)—The Lindbergh kidnapping case prompted her to attempt a daring extortion plot on her family physician, Eunice Krause, 21, school teacher, confessed yesterday to Sheriff Joseph Greer.

The girl was apprehended after several days of quiet investigation and story of handwriting in the $2000 extortion note received by Dr. Wilson Cunningham.

Mrs. Krause waived preliminary hearing and was bound over for trial June 10.

She said she planned the extortion to help her mother and brother. She is the sole support of her family, the father having left home some time ago. She was about to lose her position as a teacher, she said.

A letter was written to the doctor on May 16, demanding the money and threatening him with death if he refused to pay. He was to place the money in a tin can near a certain tree about a highway not far from here. A dummy package was placed in the tin but no one showed up to get it. Mrs. Krause said she did look in the tin a couple days later, but when she saw no package there.

Suspicion was directed at her. She then wrote him when it was determined he would press the special law daily in going to her school.

CHILD FATALLY HURT BY FATHER'S TRUCK

Wausau—(P)—Corinne Grell, 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Grell, farm folk living in the town of Hamburg, was fatally injured last Wednesday when struck by a truck which her father was backing out of a garage. Her skull was fractured.

DUCE PUTS WOMAN ON NEARLY EQUAL GROUND WITH MAN

Rome—(P)—Premier Mussolini at last has placed women closer on a par with man in the Fascist system. Today under the party seals was issued a new regulation "to carry Fascism into the family." It reorganizes the feminine Fascist groups, ordering the formation of units for women and girls wherever there is a men's unit. This applies to about 14,000 communities in Italy.

The women and girls are charged with "all the obligations of those who fight for the party." There is a separate organization, but the woman provincial secretary will be subordinate to the local secretary of the men's group, who must approve the women's officers. Otherwise the feminine groups apparently have the same standing as those of the men.

MESSAGE SAYS EX-GOVERNOR WILL ACCEPT

Great Ovation for Kohler When Telegram is Read at Convention

ASHLAND MAN CHEERED

Chapple Renews Attack on "Racket" in His Speech of Acceptance

Madison—(AP)—Walter J. Kohler, manufacturer and former governor, was endorsed for the gubernatorial nomination at the Republican state convention today by a unanimous vote.

Mr. Kohler's name was placed before the convention by W. B. Koons, delegate from Ashland, after Harry Dahl of LaCrosse had announced that the former governor was an available candidate.

Levi Bancroft, federal district attorney of Milwaukee, presented a motion to have the endorsement declared unanimous and it carried.

Julius Heil, Milwaukee; John B. Chapple, Ashland, and Morton Hunter, Milwaukee, made second speeches and the convention selected Mr. Kohler as its standard bearer in the 1932 campaign for the Republican nomination against Gov. Philip LaFollette.

Madison—(P)—Walter J. Kohler notified the Republican state convention by telegram today that he will accept the endorsement as a candidate for governor if there is a general and general sentiment in his behalf.

Kohler's telegram which was in response to a query asking what he would do in the event of his endorsement was as follows: "I have repeatedly requested my friends not to present my name to the convention. However, if there is a general and undivided and genuine sentiment that I run as stated in your telegram of this noon with a full understanding of the difficulties and the willingness to give thorough volunteer support I will accept the decision of the conference."

When the convention opened for substantial nomination at 2 p. m. Harry Dahl of LaCrosse, probable candidate for lieutenant governor, presented Kohler's name to the convention in a nominating speech urging support for his candidacy.

With the statement of Kohler it was regarded as certain that the convention would endorse him.

Ovation for Kohler

After Mr. Dahl completed his speech he read Kohler's telegram. Instantly there was a tremendous ovation from the delegates.

For more than 10 minutes the former governor was given a demonstration for accepting the nomination if it was awarded him.

Edward Martz, a delegate from Milwaukee, was among the first to spring to his feet when the telegram was read. He seized a flag and began a march around the convention hall, followed by a majority of the delegates.

There appeared to be no question as to whether the nomination would be given to Mr. Kohler.

Madison—(P)—John B. Chapple, youthful Ashland editor, was chosen as the conservative Republican candidate for United States senator over the first official ballot at the convention today. A second ballot was made. Nomination of Chapple was made unanimous by the convention when it became apparent that he had far more than a majority of the 1,136 delegate votes. The motion to make the Chapple nomination unanimous was made by W. J. Campbell of Oshkosh, an avowed candidate for the senate.

Immediately after the motion was made Campbell pledged his support to Chapple. Cheers greeted his announcement. Campbell's name along with that of State Senator Walter S. Goodland of Racine, and Dr. Gerhard Bading of Milwaukee, had been placed before the convention as candidates for the senate. The endorsement of the conservative

Senator Goodland has been rumored as the candidate on which party leaders had agreed but the Chapple sentiment was so strong on the first informal ballot that the young Ashland editor obviously had the nomination clinched.

The vote from all but four counties on the informal ballot gave Chapple the ballots of 508 delegates. He needed a total of 551 to be nominated. Chapple had 553 votes. Goodland 271 and Bading 53.

Cries for an unanimous ballot were heard in the convention hall and soon Campbell was on his feet. "It is obvious that this convention wants Mr. Chapple as its candidate."

New Chilean Chief Denies Reports Of Dissentions In Regime

DAVILA ALSO DECLARES NO REVOLT LOOMS

Outlines Policy of Providing Jobs for All and Making Rich Pay

La Paz, Bolivia.—(AP)—Possibility of a wave of Socialist revolutions in South America, from Patagonia to the Panama Canal, was foreseen as a result of the recent Chilean coup in an editorial today in Ultima Hora, leading afternoon newspaper here.

The editorial said the capitalist system has "demonstrated a complete incapacity to solve the problems of the new world."

"But more than that," it continued, "the system lacks the vision to examine the new face of the world. Its resources and its accumulated experience clash against reality today. It cannot find the formula to save itself."

"Its latest failure is the result of an attempt to apply to new problems methods of solution which were efficient 20 or 30 years ago, without realizing that the methods must of necessity be modernized."

"It will not be long—this is the general opinion that reality will soon confirm—before Peru and Argentina experience revolutionary movements of the same nature as Chile has just undergone. And this will extend to Bolivia and the other countries of Latin America."

COOL WEATHER TO REMAIN ANOTHER DAY

The cool but agreeable weather of the last few days will remain for at least another 24 hours, according to forecasts. The weatherman has forecast little change in temperature for tonight and Thursday, but adds that the skies will be partly cloudy.

Moderate northerly winds will predominate during the night and tomorrow. Yesterday 67 degrees was high and 47 was low.

GUNMEN TAKE UP AVIATION

Photographers, Workmen Fear "Hoodlum" Flying Students

BY SHERMAN B. ALTICK
Copyright, 1932, By Cons. Press
New York.—(C.P.A.)—Gangland is sprouting wings. At Floyd Bennett and Roosevelt fields almost daily may be found individuals whose names are familiar in the underworld haunts of the city.

On the airports they are a clanish lot, remaining close to each other and rarely exchanging a word with anyone near the hangars. Some are dapper while others are modest in their dress.

While they move about without interfering with anyone else on the fields, they are ready to act in case some one trespasses upon their privacy. Word has gone out that the newspaperman who dares take a photograph of one of them in an airplane will be dealt with according to the unwritten code of the underworld.

Fear of having valuable cameras broken has kept most cameramen from photographing these fledglings and has kept others from releasing photographs they have obtained secretly. It is understood.

Employees around the airports are afraid to talk about them without first weighing their words.

Warns Workmen

"Be careful what you say," said one workman at Roosevelt field when a question was asked about the gangsters learning to fly. "There's always a bunch of them inside that hangar and they can hear through the walls."

"They passed out the word when they came out here to fly that no pictures were to be taken, and if any are taken it will be just too bad. None of the boys out here want to be 'put on the spot.'"

Over at Floyd Bennett field the same fear exists. An employee said none of the boys there would take the chance of being released the gangsters because they had received the same ultimatum as had been issued at Roosevelt.

"One of the boys here has some pictures, but he has been instructed not to release them until told he may," the mechanic said, and then added that "there sure will be the devil to pay now that the gangster story has leaked out."

"They were supposed to get their training in airmanship with the utmost secrecy," said one younger pilot at the city-owned airport. "Some of them are just about ready to solo and I understand that at least two of the leaders have ordered planes."

MISSING BOYS ARE SEEN IN MADISON

Madison.—(AP)—While Appleton police were searching for two 14-year-old boys who had run away from home, they were in the city capital getting autographs of Governor LaFollette and other state officials, it was revealed today.

The boys hitch-hiked to Madison, secured the autographs, mailed postal cards to their parents and then continued on their journey. Local police and state officials were not aware that the boys, one of whom gave his name as Ralph Daniels, were being sought. The other was J. Courtois. The boys disappeared in Appleton last Thursday night.

APPLETON MAN'S CAR STOLEN FROM STREET

A Chevrolet coach, 1928 model, owned by George Ellis, Jr., 1122 W. Wisconsin, was stolen between 9 o'clock Tuesday night and 3:30 Wednesday morning from a parking place in front of the house, according to a report to police. The machine was green in color and had the 1931 license, C-158551. Police are looking for the car.

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

REPEAL

The most effective argument against the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment is that employed by Senator Borah when he asks what "constructive alternatives" the repealers have to offer. Mrs. Boole of the W. C. T. U., and Bishop Cannon make the same point, and it is obvious from Mr. Rockefeller's letter to President Butler that he is somewhat troubled too.

The repealers ought to welcome this challenge, for when the national prohibitionists ask for a "constructive alternative," they are obviously prepared to admit the principle that liquor might be legalized if it were adequately regulated. Senator Borah could not sincerely ask for an alternative to prohibition if he were determined to insist that no body must ever drink liquor under any conditions. The problem, therefore, is narrowed down to the question whether by repealing the Eighteenth Amendment the prospect of a successful regulation of the liquor traffic would be increased or diminished.

In examining the consequences of repeal the first question to ask ourselves is what power to regulate would be left if the Eighteenth Amendment were removed. There would remain twenty states which have prohibition by their own constitutions. There would remain in every state the power to prohibit by constitution or by statute. The Webb-Kenyon Law, adopted by Congress in 1913 would remain, compelling the Federal government to prohibit shipments of liquor into a state if such a shipment violates the state laws. Congress would have the power to prohibit or regulate the importation of liquor from abroad. These two objectives: to prevent interstate traffic and to prevent importations are just about all that Federal enforcement aims at today. They do not depend upon the maintenance of the Eighteenth Amendment.

On the other hand, repeal would revive powers to regulate liquor which do not exist today. In states which are opposed to prohibition, it is impossible, under the Eighteenth Amendment, to have temperance legislation of any kind whatever. Laws to regulate the liquor traffic are unconstitutional under the Eighteenth Amendment. The consequence is that in states where the majority is anti-prohibition, there is no effective prohibition and there are no alternatives. If no power over words, it is not more repeated in debate to say to Senator Borah that only by the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment it is possible in wet territory to have a constructive alternative to the bootleg liquor industry.

GETS PROMOTION IN OIL COMPANY

Martin G. Peeters Vice President of Wadhams Organization

Martin G. Peeters, Milwaukee, formerly of Appleton, has been elected vice president and director of the Wadhams Oil company, according to Aubrey G. Maguire, who has been re-elected chairman of the board. James M. McLaughlin also was elected a vice president and director.

Mr. Peeters lived in Appleton from 1919 to 1921. From 1919 to 1921 he was manager of the Appleton branch of Wadhams, and then he was made superintendent of all branches, with headquarters in Appleton. In 1928 he became manager of the gasoline division, directing the sale of Wadhams gasoline, and moved to Milwaukee, where he has lived since. His present work brings him in contact with practically every city in the state and at many points throughout the United States. The company operates 31 bulk plants and distributes through 16 distributors.

For several years Mr. Peeters has served as an officer of the Wisconsin Petroleum association, and as an active member of the Wisconsin Code committee and the American Petroleum Institute.

Both Mr. Peeters and Mr. McLaughlin are vice presidents and directors of the Berkhausen Oil corporation of Green Bay, and directors of the Perfect Oil corporation, La Crosse. Both companies are affiliated with the Wadhams Oil company of Milwaukee.

ROOSEVELT IS EASY WINNER IN FLORIDA

Jacksonville, Fla.—(AP)—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, swept forward today decisive endorsement for the presidency by Florida Democrats as returns from the statewide primary were slowly assembled today.

The vote tabulated from 126 of the state's 1,283 precincts gave the New Yorker 14,332 to 1,995 for Gov. William H. Murray of Oklahoma and 223 for L. J. Chasse, Little known entrant from Milwaukee, Wis.

Mark Wilcox, repealist candidate for congress, held a lead of 6,498 to 4,722 over Congressman Ruth Bryan Owen in 84 of the fourth district's 419 precincts. Mrs. Owens favors a referendum.

Partly cloudy tonight and Thursday; little change in temperature.

General Weather

Fair weather prevails this morning over the lake region and most of the eastern states, due to high pressure which is centered over Lake Superior. General showers and scattered thunderstorms have occurred over the central Mississippi Valley and upper Missouri Valley and the northern Rocky Mountains, and it is still raining over Iowa and southwestern Wisconsin. It is much cooler this morning over the upper Mississippi Valley, lake region and the northeastern states, but elsewhere the temperature changes are unimportant. Continued fair weather, with little change in temperature, is expected in this section during the next 24 hours.

The Misses Jean and Orpha Owen spent last weekend in Milwaukee, where they attended the graduation exercises at Concordia college.

DRY LAW ISSUE TO BE BIGGEST AT CONVENTION

Party Still Awaiting Definite Announcement from President Hoover

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1932, By Post Pub. Co.
Washington.—Prohibition, repeal, referendum and the liquor problem generally will be the dominating feature of the Republican national convention.

Irrespective of the wishes of platform makers, the discussion on the floor will bring to a head the rising tide of opinion that political parties can no longer evade the issue involved and that there is hardly a middle ground between those who want absolute repeal and those who want to keep the eighteenth amendment untouched until an agreement of public opinion on a substitute can be reached.

President Hoover's position has not yet been publicly revealed as any different from what it was when, in transmitting the Wickersham report, he came out in uncompromising loyalty to the eighteenth amendment. There are signs now that if he veers at all it will be toward the general proposition that repeal without a substitute would mean chaos and a loss of such gains as prohibition has made.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr.'s argument that there can be no agreement between the different schools of thought on a substitute at this time and that repeal is a prerequisite of the basis really for the whole discussion.

Democrats Split

The Democrats, for example, have not rallied behind Governor Roosevelt's alternative, which is state government control of all liquor distribution. There are large elements which want the states to have absolute power to pass such laws as they desire from time to time and not be limited to one form of distribution, namely through state agencies.

While Mr. Roosevelt is for repeal with a substitute and every other important Democratic aspirant at least wants repeal—President Hoover and Vice President Curtis have never so much as smiled upon the repeal idea in principle. Senator Borah of Idaho has endeavored to keep the question from really being passed upon at the Republican national convention, arguing that even a referendum should be decided upon by the people through congress and that the national conventions should not attempt to commit members of the national parties to a pro or con position on the referendum.

He feels that the people can have a referendum every two years by voting for or against members of congress committed to the wet or dry side as the case may be and that this method gives an opportunity to test specific alternatives designated to solve the liquor distribution problem.

Urges Definite Stand

Mr. Hoover is being importuned by influential members of the Republican party to take a definite position through the national convention itself. But even if the platform plank is vague, the leaders are beginning to realize that Mr. Hoover will not be able to remain silent throughout the campaign under the constant hammering that his opponent probably will resort to in order to emphasize what may appear to be an extreme dry position on the part of the president.

For this reason some of the friends of Mr. Hoover are urging that he let the convention alone, so that it may adopt whatever platform plank it chooses, and then the president can gracefully accept the party decision as expressed in the platform. The difficulty with this is that Mr. Hoover knows that everybody else knows that as the forthcoming nominee he can dictate to the convention and that it will be viewed merely as evasion of responsibility on his part if he endeavors to hide, so to speak, behind the authority of the convention.

In Chilean Crisis

Proclamation of a socialistic government in Chile by the revolutionaries has threatened seizure of foreigners' property has imposed grave responsibilities upon William S. Culbertson, above, United States ambassador to the South American republic. American investments in Chile are valued at $700,000,000.

Position Unavoidable

What may develop, of course, is a revolt against any dictation from the nominee at all and an actual expression of opinion that is plainly at variance with Mr. Hoover's extreme desire and views heretofore. Under such circumstances, the president by making a fight against the plank could hardly be accused of avoidance. But a defeat of a presidential demand in the face of the fact that the president is to be the nominee of the party disagreeing with him would be unprecedented and might hurt the candidate's prestige.

Truly the President is Having His Worries

He would, of course, favor the referendum and announce that while in such a referendum he would vote dry, he would accept the mandate indicated in the referendum.

The agitation for a repeal or modification of the existing amendment is growing so strongly among the Republicans of the east that the national convention at Chicago will provide a dramatic debate on prohibition. The leaders who want harmony at any cost may strive to prevent it, but it is really unavoidable.

APPLETON MAN GETS CALIFORNIA DEGREE

Louis J. Kolitsch, 517 S. Locust-st., received his Master of Arts degree last Saturday from the University of Southern California. He took his Bachelor of Arts degree about 8 years ago from the University of Wisconsin, taught for two years in Los Angeles, Calif., and during the past year taught history and foreign languages in Beverly Hills high school, Los Angeles. He will spend the summer vacation at his home in Appleton.

BOARD MEETS FRIDAY

The Appleton board of education will meet at 7 o'clock Friday night at Lincoln school. Various reports will be presented.

Freed American Tells Of Five Months Captivity By Chinese Force Of Bandits

Shanghai.—(AP)—A harrowing tale of five months of terror and filthy living conditions was told here today by Captain Charles Baker, American steamboat captain who was released last week near Hankow by Chinese bandits who kidnapped him last winter.

Captain Baker, who was released through the efforts of American missionaries after many previous attempts had been made to meet ransom demands of his captors, arrived here on his way to the United States, where he expects to rejoin his family at Oakland, Calif.

He planned to remain here for a short time, however, he said, in order to recuperate from the effects of the hardships he suffered during his captivity.

"I was threatened with death fifty times," he said. "I never expected to survive. These half-civilized, treacherous, inhuman bandits, who call themselves Communists, are conducting a wholesale kidnapping business. Their victims are day laborers or wealthy Chinese they can lay their hands on who, they believe, would be capable of paying huge ransoms."

During the entire five months his food consisted only of half-cooked rice, and fish twice a day, he said.

"It was filthy," he said, "but I ate it occasionally. I refused to drink the water they offered me, however, until it was boiled. I slept in mud huts on bare boards beside the outlaws."

Threatened Execution

Although he was frequently threatened with execution, because the ransom demand of 50,000 Mexican dollars was not met, he was mistreated physically only once.

"Then I was chained and beaten," he said, "apparently because a newly-arrived chief wished to impress his followers."

Captain Baker told a tale of widespread lawlessness over an area beginning a short distance from Hankow and extending 200 miles along the north bank of the Yangtze.

"This vast area consists of the so-called Chinese Communist government," he said, "which is made up of outlaws such as held me. They hold the whole country in an iron grip, terrorizing the peasants, abducting them of every possible kind. In addition to carrying on wholesale kidnapping."

"I was told they are now holding 6,000 Chinese for ransom, most of whom are doomed to die because the ransom payments are impossible. The provincial and national governments are helpless before these outlaws, who make their living killing, plundering and kidnapping."

He said they appeared to maintain a harsh discipline among themselves.

Pose As Communists

"They wear black uniforms," he said, with the Soviet emblems, the sickle and hammer, on them. They all are heavily armed with Chinese rifles, and pistols principally German-made. They are probably the strongest armed force in China and are utterly opposed to any legally constituted authority."

Captain Baker was brought here from Hankow on the United States naval river gunboat Panay. The Panay is a sister ship of the Oahu, which yesterday was reported to have fired upon a group of bandits on the upper Yangtze, near Chungking.

"The Americans treated me royally," he said. "I cannot express how good the clean hot food and water they offered me looked, after five months of wallowing in dirt and filth in disease-infested bandit huts."

"I had no bath or change of clothing during the entire time I was a captive, and the lice made life a nightmare. The Americans, under Lieutenant Commander W. J. Morcott, brought me back to life."

He showed the effects of his experience. He lost 30 pounds in the five months and arrived here in clothing borrowed from friends at Hankow. All his possessions were gone.

WRIGHTSTOWN GIRL DROWNED IN RIVER

Mary Vander Heiden, 19, Wrightstown, drowned in the Fox River Monday night when she was unable to reach shore after swimming out to a raft in the middle of the river. Miss Vander Heiden, the daughter of Mrs. Tena Vander Heiden, was an expert swimmer. Several relatives live in Appleton.

Jean Vander Heiden, a cousin, was swimming with her but was unaware of the accident until she reached the shore, since she was swimming ahead of Mary with the belief that the girl was following her. The body was recovered two hours later.

Survivors are the mother; five brothers, Marvin of California; Harold of DePere, Arthur, Ambrose and Paul, all at home; one sister, Alice, at home.

No arrangements had been made for the funeral until word is received from the brother in California.

OVERHEAD CROSSING OPENED TO TRAFFIC

The overhead crossing on Highway 26, between Leppia's Corners and Oshkosh, has been opened to traffic. This overhead eliminates a crossing of the highway and the Soo Line railroad tracks at that point. The surface of the approaches to the overhead have been graded and the approaches will be allowed to settle, before permanent surfacing is placed on them.

62 STUDENTS AT ROOSEVELT SCHOOL RECEIVE AWARDS

Recognition Made for Activities of Second Semester

Sixty-two Roosevelt junior high school students have received awards for second semester activities, including athletics, scholarship, citizenship, music and special service.

Under the activities system at the school a student receives a bronze medal if he is eligible for one of these activities, a silver award for two, and a gold pin for proficiency in three or three semesters of activity. The student chooses what activity emblem will be shown in the center of the pin, which does not become his property until he has earned it through his junior high school career. Once earning an award each student must maintain his record to keep the award which, if lost, must be earned again.

Gold awards were won by the following ninth graders: Reva Cohen, scholarship; Marion Dettman, music and citizenship; William Elias, athletics; Mary Lou Fannon, music and citizenship; Frank Hammer, athletics; Lawrence Herzog, athletics; Robert McNish, scholarship, citizenship and special service; Ralph Madison, athletics; Clement Rankin, athletics and special service; Kenneth Sager, scholarship, citizenship and music; Anthony Vandenberg, scholarship and music; Mary Voecks, music and scholarship; Annabelle Wolf, music.

Outagamie-co Individuals Protest Payment Of Income Taxes

PREDICT LIST OF DELINQUENTS WILL BE LARGER

Expect About Half of Those Who Get Bills Will Be Unable to Pay by July 1

Outagamie-co residents have started paying their 1931 state income tax bills—but with the same reluctance and protest that is being shown on the part of taxpayers throughout the state.

This year the county's income tax bill for individuals is $215,922.05 as compared with $117,957.83 for 1930, an increase of almost $100,000. And this big boost means that almost 80 per cent of all the income taxpayers this year will pay a tax increased from 25 to 100 per cent.

The emergency relief surtax, a plan adopted by the state to raise

To Write Platform

Following is a copy of the letter sent to Governor Philip La Follette, today by Oscar J. Schmlege, assemblyman from this district, asking that some steps be taken to give taxpayers more time for payment of their 1931 income taxes:

"Dear Governor:

"Owing to continued prevailing economic conditions, hundreds of people of my county are finding themselves, through no fault of their own, without funds to pay the income taxes assessed against them due July 1. A large number of these people have called at my office and state that, because of financial reverses, they are unable to take care of these taxes and thus will become subject to the statutory penalty.

"I request, on their behalf, that a plan be worked out whereby the payment of these taxes can be extended for a period of one year or, possibly, taken care of in quarterly payments.

"I am sure that a plan can be worked out without seriously affecting the state's current financial demands. Should this action be taken, it would do much to relieve the distress, not only of these people, but of many others throughout the state of Wisconsin.

Very respectfully yours,
Oscar J. Schmlege."

GIESE FREED OF CHARGES OF PERJURY

Judge Dismisses Case This Morning—No Opposition Made

Charges of perjury against W. F. Giese, Appleton, former sheriff who was ousted from office in 1929 by Governor Walter J. Kohler for misconduct in office, were dismissed by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court this morning on motion of the defense attorney.

Asking dismissal of the case, Giese's attorney claimed there was lack of evidence to convict. He pointed out that there had been failure to prosecute the case, and that since the case had gone over two terms of court without being tried, it should now be dismissed. There was no opposition to the dismissal from the district attorney's office.

The charge against Giese was filed at a John Doe hearing here in the spring of 1929 when an effort was made by the district attorney's office to sift charges of bribery and graft in the sheriff's department. At that time Giese denied the charge and furnished bond. Sometime later Governor Kohler sent Frank Gilbert to Appleton to sit as a referee in a hearing of the charges filed against Giese. When the testimony was completed the governor ordered Giese's ouster and appointed Sheriff John Lappen to fill the unexpired term. Giese was second in the race for the Republican nomination for sheriff two years ago. This year he plans to seek the office again at the fall elections, it is said.

RECEIVERSHIP ASKED FOR UTILITIES FIRM

Wilmington, Del. — (P) — Appointment of receivers for the Central West Public Service Co., of Omaha, Neb., was asked in a bill of complaint filed today in chancery court by Guy C. F. of Chicago. Fox is the owner of preferred stock and a $2,000 gold bond of the company.

The concern was incorporated in Delaware June 25, 1926, and has funded debts outstanding in the amount of $12,650,000, of which $1,000,000 in three-year 7 per cent notes is due next Aug. 1.

The business of the concern consists of owning and operating public utility properties in Iowa, Minnesota, South Dakota, and Texas and owning stocks of other corporations engaged in public utility business in Iowa, Illinois, Nebraska, North Carolina, North Dakota, Virginia, and West Virginia.

come taxes. In 1928, 95 persons were delinquent; 1929, 378; 1930, 270; and 1931, 284. The total amount due is $15,947.18. Sheriff Lappen has collected taxes from 46 of these delinquents. Twenty-two of the delinquents have died and 149 moved and left no address; addresses of 43 are unknown and a scattering few are unable to pay or have made partial payments.

See 2,500 Delinquents

It is being estimated, unofficially, that not more than half of the 5,500 persons who received income tax statements this month will be able to make their payments before July 1. Of the 2,500 who are expected to pay their taxes, it is believed, more than 2,000 will protest the payment of the emergency relief tax claiming its assessment is illegal.

Oscar J. Schmlege, assemblyman from this district, said today that he has received scores of complaints about the size of the income tax and that several people have suggested steps be taken to arrange for the collection of the tax in quarterly installments. In line with this suggestion, Mr. Schmlege has written a letter to Governor La Follette, asking that steps be taken to arrange for a plan whereby these taxes may be paid over a period of time.

COMMENCEMENT AT COLLEGE TO OPEN TOMORROW

Second Annual Alumni College Starts at 9 O'clock in Morning

Commencement activities at Lawrence college will begin Thursday morning with the opening of the second annual Alumni college. Dr. Henry M. Wriston, president of the college, will open the activities with an address on "Recent Changes in the Curriculum," at 9 o'clock in the morning.

The program for the week consists largely of alumni activities, but several student functions also have been planned. The Alumni college will be in session from 9 o'clock until noon, and from 2 until 3 o'clock Thursday and Friday. It will close Saturday with two morning lectures. Speakers for this year's college include Dr. A. A. Trever, Dr. Joseph H. Griffiths, and Prof. Gladys Ives Brainerd, each of whom will present a series of three lectures.

The annual Conservatory commencement concert will be held Thursday evening at the Lawrence Memorial chapel. There will be a meeting of trustees and visitors at the Carnegie library at 9 o'clock Friday morning. Afternoon's activities, excluding the alumni college, will be held at the alumni picnic on two o'clock plays will be presented by students under the direction of Prof. F. T. Cloek. The annual Phi Beta Kappa public address will be presented Friday evening at Peabody hall by Dr. Ross A. Bortner of the University of Minnesota.

The annual senior class day exercises will be held on the Main campus at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, and at noon the all-alumni commencement picnic will be held on the South campus. Alumni and faculty will be guests of the college, and opportunity will be provided for visitors to inspect the new Alexander gymnasium and the Institute of Paper Chemistry. The annual reception for members of the graduating class will be held from 3:30 until 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the home of President H. M. Wriston.

The golden jubilee banquet, sponsoring the classes of 1870-1881 and 1882-1900 in honor of the class of 1882, will be held at Ormsby hall at 7 o'clock Saturday evening. The class of 1907 also will celebrate its silver anniversary at the banquet. An exhibit of old programs, photographs and other souvenirs will be shown. Elizabeth Wilson, class of 1890, is in charge of the program.

The annual baccalaureate service will be held at 11 o'clock Sunday morning with Dr. Wriston in charge. Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wood, 402 E. Washington st., will be at home to all members of Phoenix and Lawrent, and Dr. and Mrs. A. A. Trever, 333 E. Alton st., to members of Philadelphian. Sunday afternoon from 4 until 7 o'clock.

The commencement exercises and the awarding of degrees will be held at the Memorial chapel Monday morning. Dr. Charles W. Gilkey, president of the University chapel at the University of Chicago, will be the principal speaker.

Luncheon Next Monday

The activities will be concluded Monday noon with the annual luncheon for graduates at Russell Sage hall.

The alumni college program for Thursday includes three lectures, the opening address by President Wriston, and lectures by Dr. J. H. Griffiths and Professor Gladys Ives Brainerd. Dr. Griffiths will discuss "The New View-Points in Psychology," and Miss Brainerd will lecture on "Alta Breve: Beginning to Johann Bach." Dr. Trever will address the college at the afternoon session when he opens his series of lectures with a discussion of "The Greek View of Life."

'FROZEN CUSTARD' MUST CONFORM TO STATE LAW

Madison — (P) — A product known as "frozen custard" and being sold in Neenah, Menasha, Appleton, and other cities in the state must meet the requirements of the state law on ice cream manufacture, the state department of agriculture and markets announced today.

The department said the product has tested only 6 per cent of butterfat and that manufacturers have been informed that the legal 13 per cent is necessary or they will be prosecuted. Ice cream must contain 13 per cent butterfat and R. M. Orchard, counsel for the department, has ruled that "frozen custard" and "custard ice cream" are considered synonymous.

POLICE HERE HAVE WARRANT FOR GIRL HELD IN MADISON

Charge She Took Clothing from Rooming House Last Saturday

Mrs. Garna Sackett Webb, 17, formerly of New London and Appleton, on whose complaint Merton Grenhagen, 53, Oshkosh artist, was arrested in Madison on a statutory charge, yesterday, is wanted by police here on a charge of larceny, according to Police Chief George Prim.

Mrs. Webb's complaint to Madison police resulted in the arrest of Grenhagen and herself. Grenhagen pleaded not guilty and his hearing was set for next Tuesday. Mrs. Webb, police charge, stole $26.50 worth of ladies wearing apparel from a roomer in a rooming house on N. Appleton st. last Saturday Mrs. Webb roomed there for several days, police said, and when she left Saturday she took the $26.50 worth of clothing. At the rooming house, Chief Prim said, the girl gave the name of Betty Carson.

Police started an investigation and traced the girl to Oshkosh. Oshkosh police were asked to arrest her Monday, but in the meantime she was arrested at Madison, Chief Prim said that if the charges against the girl were not prosecuted at Madison, he would bring her here to face charges. Mrs. Webb has spent some time in New London and Appleton.

Mrs. Webb claimed she had been living with Mr. Grenhagen since last February and he became angry last Monday night because she went out with a taxi driver. On her return to the room she found her haggard outside the door, and a note telling her to get out of town. She appealed to the taxi driver, with the result that Grenhagen and the girl both landed in court Tuesday.

Grenhagen is one of the best known of Wisconsin artists. Aside from painting pictures of judges, prominent lawyers and educators, he fashioned the medallion of Dr. Charles McCarthy now hanging in the legislative chamber.

Mrs. Webb's complaint to Madison police resulted in the arrest of Grenhagen and herself. Grenhagen pleaded not guilty and his hearing was set for next Tuesday. Mrs. Webb, police charge, stole $26.50 worth of ladies wearing apparel from a roomer in a rooming house on N. Appleton st. last Saturday Mrs. Webb roomed there for several days, police said, and when she left Saturday she took the $26.50 worth of clothing. At the rooming house, Chief Prim said, the girl gave the name of Betty Carson.

Police started an investigation and traced the girl to Oshkosh. Oshkosh police were asked to arrest her Monday, but in the meantime she was arrested at Madison, Chief Prim said that if the charges against the girl were not prosecuted at Madison, he would bring her here to face charges. Mrs. Webb has spent some time in New London and Appleton.

SARAZEN LEADS AT BRITISH OPEN

Scores 70 in First Round; Armour, Defending Champ, Gets 75

Sandwich, Eng. — (P) — Gene Sarazen, New York, professional and American favorite for the title, today scored 70 for the first round of the British open golf championship, to take the lead with most of the field in.

Sarazen went along easily in the two qualifying rounds for a 73-76 and then got "hot" today to break park by four strokes in one of England's most difficult golf tests.

His score was one stroke better than those of MacDonald Smith, another American favorite, Charles Whitcombe and W. H. Davies, British favorites, who had been tied for the early lead.

Sarazen was out in 35, one under par, and home in the same number of strokes, three under "perfect" figures.

The gallery gave him a big cheer as he walked off the green.

Tommy Armour, defending champion from Detroit, scored a 75.

Percy Allis, British professional, posted a 71 to make it a four way tie for second place.

FOUR DAYS IS TIME LIMIT SET BY DEM LEADERS

Platform Committee to Hold Session Before Convention Opens

Washington — Political conventions have as their primary business the nomination of presidential candidates and as their secondary business the framing of a platform.

But there are always a lot of motions and clownish antics to be gone through which drag a convention out two or three days longer than seems vitally necessary. You must remember that one function of a convention is that of a ballyhoo festival with which the party attracts the attention of the country. Few delegates would care to arrive and turn around toward home almost immediately. Nor would the local hotel men and others who have put up good money stand for a convention of only one or two days.

Situations In Contrast

This year the Republicans probably will have trouble stretching out their show, whereas the Democrats, with a flock of candidates—real and so-called—have taken special measures to keep their convention condensed within four days if possible.

The principal variation from routine convention procedure will be the meeting of the Democratic platform committee just prior to the convention itself, a device to save time.

The Way They Work

Otherwise the procedure of the two conventions is about the same. They adopt the rules of the House of Representatives to work with, plus certain traditional deviations which include the two-thirds and unit rules in the case of Democrats.

A convention is first called to order by the chairman of the party's national committee. Each session, after the call, is launched by a prayer. That touch of piety is always impressive, if only by contrast. The meeting of the Democratic platform committee at Madison Square Garden in 1924 the Democrats priests and rabbi until they had used about all there were in New York. And the convention was in the throes of the bitterest, meanest religious fight ever seen at a national political meeting.

After a short speech by the national chairman and the reading of the call for the convention the first adjournment is taken.

First Chance For Fight

At the following session a resolution is passed to adopt the House rules and the rules of the last convention. Then a list of temporary officers is read for the convention's approval and it is always possible for someone to rise then and precipitate a fight over who is to be temporary chairman and keynoter, as William Jennings Bryan rose against Alton B. Parker in 1912.

If that doesn't happen the temporary chairman is brought to the chair forthwith and usually delivers an address of welcome.

Because of the radio audience, the keynote speeches, which used to be delivered in the afternoon, undoubtedly will be made at night. Keynote speeches are mighty inspirational efforts in which one party is positively identified with the hosts of heaven and the other painted as the forces of darkness and the great enemies of the poor. They are supposed to rouse frequent outbursts of pandemonium.

Down To Business

Actual business begins after the keynoting, perhaps the same evening. If it hasn't been done in the afternoon, the roll of states is called for each delegation's member to each of the six committees, chief of which are those on resolutions (platform), credentials, rules and permanent organization.

The second day begins with rendition of the Star-Spangled Banner by some celebrated female singer and receipt of the credentials committee report by the temporary chairman. Sometimes a floor row then breaks out over which of one or more sets of contesting delegates shall be seated.

Official At Last

At this point the convention is not yet "official" or permanent. It is made up of a temporary roll of delegates as approved by the national committee. But the committee on permanent organization follows the credentials committee with its report and barring a fight, the permanent chairman — expected to be House Leader Bert Snell for the Democrats — is elected. The convention then really begins.

The committee on rules reports—usually an unimportant function—and the roll is called for the national committee which will take office for the next four years at the end of the convention. Resolutions are made next, the most exciting of which is likely to authorize the national committee to call another national convention in 1936.

If the platform committee isn't ready to report a distinguished member of the party may be asked to speak.

With good luck, even a convention where there's a lively contest can get its platform off the way and nominating speeches started by the third day and a presidential nomination made by the fourth day, with the vice presidential nomination following immediately.

At both meetings he will discuss marketing problems and plans for organization of a statewide marketing association.

TELLS ROTARY OF ADVANCES IN MEDICINE

Progress Particularly Rapid in Last 50 Years, Says Dr. Neidhold

Advances in medicine in the last 100 years, and particularly in the past 50 years, were described by Dr. Carl Neidhold in an address, The Romance of Medicine, before Rotary club at Hotel Northern Tuesday noon.

He spoke chiefly about the value of the discovery of bacteria and its relation to infectious diseases. He said that during the Boer war England lost 8,000 men from typhoid, while only 7,000 were killed in battle. During the World War, because of the discovery of anti-typhoid vaccine, though there was an enlistment of four million, there were only 1,033 cases of typhoid, and only 158 deaths. If the same ratio between elements and death had existed in the World War as did in the Civil War, there would have been 62,000 deaths from typhoid in the recent war, he said.

Diphtheria, he pointed out, has been practically banished. Localizing his statistics, he said that there had been only 14 cases of diphtheria in Appleton in 1931, and so far in 1932 there have been only two cases. There have been no deaths from the disease in the last two years. The mortality rate before the discovery of the antitoxin was from 50 to 60 per cent, he stated.

Many Lives Saved

He spoke also of the value of the discovery of the smallpox vaccine, and of the number of lives that have been saved in recent years.

Talking of the Bubonic plague, which has been completely stamped out by the extermination of rats, he gave figures to show that between 1848 and 1849 there were 25 million deaths from the plague in Europe, and that as late as 1897 six million persons in British India had died from it.

Describing the advance in medicine through the discovery of the electrocardiograph and the X-ray, Dr. Neidhold explained that the X-ray had been discovered in 1895 by a man named Roentgen, professor of physics at the University of Wurzburg in Germany. At the time he discovered the ray he named it the "X" ray, and after a year of experimentation he worked out a process of talking an X-ray picture. At that time exposure of an X-ray picture required 20 minutes, a fact which made X-raying exceedingly dangerous. Now a picture can be taken in from one-twentieth to one-hundredth of a second.

Claim Crooning Faces Same Fate As Dodo Bird

BY ROBERT MACK
(Copyright, 1932, by Cons. Press)
Washington — (CPA) — Crooning, if you accept the judgment of American's foremost musical authorities, is but a passing fancy almost certain to go the way of the dodo bird.

Although there is no doubt whatever that this type of singing, yodling, or whatever they term it, has created a tremendous radio audience during the past few years, the old school of musicians, almost to a man, feels that it is an abomination.

A symposium of the views of a score of musical notables on this controversial subject was undertaken by "Musical America," professional musical publication, and the results have just been announced. "Crooning is caustically stigmatized by the majority of twenty musical notables," the publication said in announcing the result.

Walter Damrosch, conductor of the "KBC" symphony, was brief in his denunciation. "Crooning," he said, "is a perversion of the beautiful emotion of love. I am told that it is dying out and hope that this rumor is true. Crooning has nothing to do with music, and I, therefore, as a musician, cannot claim to be an authority regarding it."

Into Oblivion

"A year or two from now the crooner will be as dead as the Dodo," said Harvey Gaul, critic and composer. "He is a poor ephemeral bird, beating his heart out for imbecile shop girls."

Said Eugene Goossens, conductor, Cincinnati symphony: "Crooning is an abomination, whether via the microphone or the megaphone. It is not only, in itself, a menace to the fine art of singing, but is usually in conjunction with songs of a type calculated to upset one's digestive equilibrium for weeks on end. A little more of it and popular music will die of pernicious anemia."

"Supine sinking into the primal ooze" was the way Will Earhart, director of music of the Pittsburgh schools, put it.

William S. Brady, voice teacher, said crooning is "an offense against good taste. Nikolai Sokoloff, conductor of the Cleveland orchestra, asserted that when he first heard crooning over the air, it "made me sick as hell."

Charles Wakefield Cadman, composer, declared he objected to the "cheesiness and artificiality" of crooning, and felt that it would have "little or no effect on the future of American music."

Defend Crooners

"If we wish to retain infant minds in adult humans," said Ruth Haller Ottaway, president of the National Federation of Music Clubs, "this so-called music known as 'crooning' is a valuable mental exercise. If we wish to develop a nation of musical illiterates, let us continue to countenance crooning over the radio and everywhere else. If this crooning of the cake-eating 'aemio' youth is a true expression of the American soul, God save America."

To the defense of crooning came Leo Reisman, jazz orchestra conductor. He said he believed the type of singing done is entirely despised upon the mood of the composition. Mrs. Ethelbert Nevin, wife of the composer, said crooning gives a great deal of pleasure to thousands who heretofore cared for no music. Madame Schumann-Heink said she liked Rudy Vallee and regretted there were not more like him.

Washington — (CPA) — Crooning, if you accept the judgment of American's foremost musical authorities, is but a passing fancy almost certain to go the way of the dodo bird.

DISCUSS DRIVE FOR PLAY FUND

Civic Council Seeks to Raise $1,500 Before End of Month

At a special meeting of the Appleton Civic Council Tuesday night at the Y. M. C. A. plans were discussed for the city-wide campaign to raise $1,500 to finance a supervised play program here this summer.

The council is seeking to raise the money immediately in order to start playground work the latter part of the month so as to have sufficient time to carry on a six weeks program. The council, representing civic organizations in the city, takes the attitude that supervised play is needed for Appleton children and is a valuable project for community cooperation.

Recently 1,500 letters were sent to citizens asking the donation of one dollar or more to support the play program, which will be sufficient to purchase necessary playground equipment and pay small salaries to capable playground supervisors in the various sections of the city.

Joseph Shields, athletic director at Appleton high school, has offered his services gratis to organize the work. Harry Sylvester is in charge of the collection of money for the playground fund.

EXPECT GARNER TO TELL STAND BEFORE MEETING

Believe Announcement Will Definitely Tell Speaker's Plans

BY BYRON PRICE
Washington—Some of Speaker Garner's closest friends believe he will make a resounding statement on the eve of the democratic national convention, either slamming his Texas sombrero definitely into the ring or kicking it out altogether. . . . There may yet be an "if" in that refusal of Senator Borah to attend the republican nominating-bec in Chicago; it is said on authority that ought to be good enough that he would go provided Mr. Hoover would back unequivocally a Borah-drafted prohibition plank. . . . Here's a tip to all candidates, high and low, from Junius J. Godwin, a Lumberton, N. C., lawyer: To make a hit with the voters, promise to take the job at one-third the salary it now pays. . . . The fiscal affairs of the national conventions have been going so badly that probably for the first time in history it has been suggested seriously that spectators' convention tickets be sold rather than distributed free to the fortunate. . . . "Strange Bedfellows" It is a pity the man who coined the wise-crack about politics making strange bedfellows didn't live to see Homer S. Cummings of Connecticut, one of the chief Roosevelt boosters, instructed to vote for Alfred E. Smith and J. P. Shouse of Kansas, head and front of the uninstructed-delegate campaign, instructed to vote for Franklin D. Roosevelt. . . . Plank-drafting is nosing the cross-word puzzle and kindred pastimes completely out of the picture these days in Washington; one Republican among the Senate regulars, whose name is known from coast to coast, already has tried out on his friends more than twenty proposed planks of prohibition. . . . Texas Still South Texas may have gone republican in 1928, but if anyone doubts that it still belongs to the Old South let him read the pronouncement of J. H. Wolfe of Dallas: "Without any personal ambition, but in response to many requests, I am casting myself on the hearts of the people as a candidate for governor." . . . Speaking of the art of using political "language," observe the flowing cadence of the following resolution adopted by the Young Democrats of Tulsa, Okla.: "We resent the eleven years of republican misrule and militantly oppose and indignantly condemn the vicious conduct," etc. . . . The bitter, biting words exchanged recently between President Hoover and Speaker Garner did not surprise those on the inside at Washington, who have been aware for some time of the depth of feeling which had developed between the nation's chief legislative officer and the nation's chief executive officer. . . . Bishop James Canno's announcement that the dyes will "confer" if they do not like the party decisions on prohibition will be studied carefully by observers who recall a sweltering day in 1928 when the Bishop walked into Associated Press headquarters at Houston, Tex., and handed over a statement calling on the dyes to "confer" at Asheville on the case of Alfred E. Smith.

SWITZERLAND WINS IN DISPUTE WITH FRANCE
The Hague, Netherlands.—(P)—The Permanent Court for International Justice decided by a vote of 6 to 5 in Switzerland's favor Tuesday in that country's long-standing dispute with France over the three zone at the frontier. . . . The court ruled that under existing treaties France had no right in 1923 to suppress the free zone and place customs houses at the frontier. It was directed that the zone, established in 1825, must be maintained and that France must reestablish the old frontier before Jan. 1, 1934.

ORGANIZATION OF "LA CROSSE PLUGS" INAUGURATES FAD

LaCrosse.—(P)—Silk toppers will be seen in great numbers on LaCrosse streets this summer. . . . Not that the formal head pieces represent extensive social doings but because a new organization has been started by businessmen, known as the "LaCrosse Plugs."

The "plugs" made their first appearance last week when they launched a ticket sale for a pageant of the Washington Bicentennial and Home Coming celebration July 2, 3 and 4. The members have decided to retain a permanent organization and will boost the city wherever they go. Judge Herman Langstadt, who heads the organization as honorary chairman, is the only survivor of a group of business men who originated the idea of wearing silk hats and meeting steamboats at the Mississippi river levees in the early seventies. In the first parade of the new organization Judge Langstadt wore the same silk hat and clothes he wore in the last century.

MANY GRADUATES OF HIGH SCHOOLS FIND JOBS SCARCE

List Suggestions for Guidance of Unemployed, Fundless Students

Madison.—(P)—The graduation of 23,000 Wisconsin high school students this month, state educational leaders say, will throw out on the world another vast number of young people who will not be able to find employment or have funds to go on to the college. . . . The state committee, formed at a recent conference of educators here to assist in guiding young men and women who find no place to turn in the present economic situation is concerned itself with the new crop of June graduates. . . . The committee has issued a bulletin for school boards and administrators suggesting what might be done for the young people who cannot find jobs or finance further education. Solutions recommended include: . . . Additional post graduate courses in high schools for certain students. . . . Courses in vocational schools in cities above 5,000. . . . University or college courses, credit or non-credit, in the university extension division by correspondence. . . . The state committee has been informed that 40 per cent of the high school graduates normally go to college and 60 per cent are absorbed in business. These ratios now are much reduced. . . . The state committee is composed of Superintendent of Education John Callahan, State Vocational Director George P. Hambrecht, Secretary E. G. Doudna of the board of regents for teachers colleges and Dean Chester D. Snell of the university extension division. Frank O. Holt, university registrar is an advisor on educational guidance problems. . . . This committee advocates that each local community organize an educational and guidance committee, charged with making a survey of its high school graduates to determine their plans for the future, their financial status and other information to help in shaping an educational program. . . . District meetings organized by the state committee are being held at the state teachers' colleges at Platteville, LaCrosse, River Falls, Eau Claire, Stevens Point, Oshkosh and Milwaukee.

GUM-DIPPED CORDS
The Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process transforms the cotton cords into a strong, tough, sinewy unit. Liquid rubber penetrates every cord and coats every fiber, guarding against internal friction and heat, greatly increasing the strength of the cord body, and giving longer tire life.

TWO EXTRA GUM-DIPPED CORD PLIES UNDER THE TREAD
This is a patented construction, and the two extra Gum-Dipped cord plies are so placed that you get 56% stronger bond between tread and cord body, and tests show 36% greater protection against punctures and blowouts. It sets a new standard for tire performance on high speed cars.

NON-SKID TREAD
Tough, live rubber specially compounded for long, slow wear. Scientifically designed non-skid gives greater traction and safe, quiet performance.

FIRESTONE does not manufacture tires under special brand names for mail order houses and others to distribute. Special Brand Tires are made without the manufacturer's name. They are sold without his guarantee or responsibility for service. Every Firestone Tire bears the Firestone name and the quality equals that of special brand mail order tires sold at the same prices.

THE PILLAR OF LIFE INSURANCE
The Post-Crescent has received a copy of the annual statement in book form of one of America's gigantic insurance companies.
It gives the details of its business, from whence it gets its income and whither it goes. It tells about its investments, how much in this sort of a bond and how much in that.
Altogether it is an absorbing story, revealing how these companies have served as a massive breakwater protecting the harbored vessels from the fury of business hurricanes. But it shows more than that. It demonstrates in connection with the 68,000,000 policies of life insurance in force in this country how our people are woven into a great financial and business fabric as well as a national one. The cattle herder in Texas, the cotton picker in Georgia, the wheat grower in Kansas and the paper maker in Wisconsin are partners in vast enterprises although they may but occasionally realize it.
The report mentions the size of the task of raising and distributing the 90 millions undertaken by the President's Committee on Unemployment Relief and yet points to the fact that our insurance companies during 1931 paid out over 2 1/2 billions in an always fresh and gurgling stream of money that found its way in every direction of the compass, into every state of the Union, down to every township in the nation.
This particular company makes a practice of keeping 40 millions of cash on hand so that it may be prepared to meet any catastrophe however extensive, so that when death or accident destroys or cripples, the postman may shortly appear with a cash substitute.
One is struck by the conservative policy which directs the permanent investments of life insurance companies. In this report it appears that about 300 millions have been invested in the bonds issued by this country and Canada, and their political subdivisions, whereas over a billion has been invested in the underlying bonds of the great railways of the two countries, their public utilities and their proven industries. How many insurance policy holders realize that not only the certainty of policy payments but the amount of the dividends upon insurance policies depend upon the stability of our national structures?
The last two years have brought reassuring proof not alone of the ability of these companies to meet the normal demands made upon them but in their prompt responses to requests for loans and advancements upon policies they have again demonstrated the soundness of the business principles which have guided their steady way.
When we vision the stupendous amount of money distributed by these companies every year—and it is now going out at the rate of over 200 millions a month—we should place more credit with them for providing one of the really major stabilizing influences the country knows, whether in good times or bad, but more effective and more endearing in the bad because more needed.

BALLYHOO
To what extent organized ballyhoo may influence the selection of presidential candidates at a national convention will always be a matter for conjecture. But such practices as howling for an hour or more, and parading wildly up and down aisles when the name of a candidate or favorite son is mentioned, have become a customary adjunct to our political conventions.
Due to the accepted custom of re-nominating the President for a second term and the absence of organized opposition to Mr. Hoover, the Republican convention may escape the usual blasts, but the Democrats will be expected to blow off the roof of the wigwam in order to influence the convention by mob psychology.

In addressing its arguments to the emotions rather than the reason, a political convention has no equal. No skilled technique of finesse of your experienced public relations counsel, is this convention ballyhoo. It is publicity direct and to the point, and consists of noise pretending to be enthusiasm, and lots of it. It is ballyhoo per se, transforming what should be the sedate deliberations of a governing body into the riot of a Roman arena when the ground was drenched in blood.
It is one of our inalienable rights, this letting loose the voice of the people in political assembly. And many stray wolves with an ear wide open, for the feast, will flock to the pack which howls the loudest. Though the times are grave and the issues involved, it will still be our privilege to make government by ballyhoo.
So, in a measure, do we nominate our presidents.

SELF-SUPPORTING STUDENTS
College editors are noted for many bizarre ideas presented as gospel only to have their recollection in later and more experienced years inspire nothing but chuckles or sheepish grins at youth's effrontery.
A case in point is the editorial which appeared recently in the Harvard Crimson, a student newspaper published at that university. Says this editorial:
"The myth that any able-bodied man can support himself and at the same time realize the full advantages of a college education must be destroyed. There is no better way of doing it than by refusing admission to men who are compelled to spend so much time and go to such ends to earn money for themselves that they lose many of the most essential benefits of a college education."
Most persons will accept this student editor's conclusions as nothing else but pure and unadulterated snobbery. There is the charitable impulse, however, to concede lack of experience in life's essentials and the consequent inability to evaluate the benefits of a college education as applied to them.
The many benefits of a college training are indisputable. Some are essential benefits; others may be desirable, yet not wholly essential. The essentials of education are the acquiring of facts, information, truths and mental training—the greatest of which is the development of the mental faculties. To provide these is the essential service of most colleges. In their acquisition, the boy who is compelled to work his way has an even chance with his more fortunate brother—possibly a greater chance, because the powerful incentives which bring him to college give him an early start in the race for success.
There are many desirable benefits and advantages, of course, which are denied the working student. Extra-curricular activities and the pleasant and complete surrender to the college atmosphere are some of them; freedom from mental worry, friendly associations and contacts that may prove valuable in after life are others. But they are not essentials to success.
The long list of famous and successful men is replete with the names of those who struggled for their educations. They missed many of the desirable benefits, but not many that were essential escaped them. It is so often true that the student able to take full advantage of all that a college may offer him, is successful later, not because of this fact, but in spite of it.

FIREARMS
Except for certain types of hunting rifles, the possession of fire-arms in the republic will hereafter be rigidly prohibited. This general disarmament is under the direction of the secretary of war, and it is believed will be the most effective measure yet devised against crimes of violence and homicide. All licenses for buying or selling fire-arms are hereby revoked, and purchases of the hunting rifles will have to be made directly through the government under a special permit. Importation and transportation of fire-arms are also expressly forbidden.
The measure was aimed first at pistols, revolvers and other small arms, but the scope of the act has been enlarged to include all explosive weapons with the single exception under special circumstances, of the hunting rifle mentioned above.
The order of the war department also expressly stipulates the calibers, ranges and munitions that are outlawed, but this is merely a technical feature of the interdiction to guard against any technical evasion of the embargo.—El Universal (Mexico).

An Englishman has invented a safety valve that provides room for expansion for household water pipes to prevent them from bursting when frozen.

THE POST-CRESCENT
S AM INSULL is all through as a big public utilities magnate . . . and so ends the career of the man whose name has been connected with utilities, electric and gas developments and transportation since back before we knew anything about businesses like that . . . he's also the lad who blew so much money giving Chicago a civic opera house . . . but he never gave Chicago a subway . . . this is a generation which is finding a lot of its leaders of a few years ago going by the boards . . .

Charles G. Dawes is turning into the champion resigner. A while ago he cut loose from his job as ambassador to England. Then, just on Monday, he resigned as president of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to go back into private business. Says he's through with politics. Says he has no ambitions at the Republican convention. Says he will NOT be a candidate for the vice-presidency. Hell 'n Maria. Well, the Reconstruction Finance boys are losing a capable leader.

The big boss just was showing a couple of visitors around the building and stopped in our room.
"There," he said, "is Jonah-the-Coroner."
We began to feel like an exhibit at the zoo.
"And how," asked the B. B., "can you be funny with such a sour look on your face?"
Well, aside from any reaction which the sight of the B. B. may have on us, he ought to realize that the funnier a writing gent is, the sadder he must look. It's part of the business.

Now you have a flock of new worries to be worried about. Just last week you got your greeting card from Phillip LaFollette with its R. S. V. P. (Wisconsin for: "resent several bucks damn quick") Now, the new federal tax has become a law and you can spend time worrying about that. Since you're all good Americans, you can't help but wonder when the government is going to be paid.

Somebody points out that though business leaders and bigshots generally have been committing suicide, that not one congressman has tried anything like that. Tsk, tsk, a congressman has SO much to live for. Or so MUCH to live for.

Got a new felt pad for beneath the typewriter. Now it's so quiet we can almost think. Watch out, folks.

Just Folks
By Edgar A. Guest
THE GAIN
When life was bright and cheerful he went singing on his way.
He scarcely knew his neighbors or what sort of folks were they.
But he wore one dismal morning to find all his money gone.
And he found that fame and fortune were not safe to lean upon.
The other day I met him, and he said: "It's very queer,
But the fact is I am happier than I've been for many a year.
I've discovered friendly people living just across the street;
I've discovered books and blossoms and the grass beneath my feet.
"Since the bank account has dwindled I've discovered at my door
A variety of blessings which I'd never known before.
I've discovered chess and checkers are not games which children play.
But are glorious entertainment when at home you choose to stay.
"Oh, we're richer now in spirit than we ever thought we'd be.
There's a bond of true devotion binding all the family.
We have gained in faith and wisdom and in fellowship with flowers.
And whatever loss may follow, these shall evermore be ours."

The marriage of Miss Sylvia Melcher, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Melcher, Menasha, to Arnold Neugebauer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wenzel Neugebauer, 897 N. Division-st., took place at 7 o'clock that morning in St. Mary church, Menasha.

Personal Health Talks
BY HERBERT PLUMMER
Noted Physician and Author

IN ONE EAR AND OUT THE OTHER
Sometimes I wonder if it is any use trying to teach the average wirecraze layman how to keep well. Here is the reason why:
My Dear Mr. Brady:
I read an article by you to the effect that we should stop catering to the whims of neuroses and stop pampering and coddling them.
I am unfortunately a victim of nerves . . . in my thirtieth year and can only look forward to a trail of misery . . . I believe I am the most nervous miserable person living . . . etc., etc.
Yours respectfully,
The correspondent describes in typical detail a lot of symptoms which any of us might trump up and fret about if we cared to concentrate our minds upon OURSELVES.
But what discourages me in a letter like this is the obvious insusceptibility of people who choose to call themselves "neurotic" to enlightenment. Either they do not understand the plainest language, such as I used in the article this correspondent quotes, or they foresee a harder existence for themselves if such an attitude becomes popular and with that prospect they become indignant and wish to have me punished or censured for my utter lack of sympathy and all that sort of thing.
Notice how this correspondent seeks to divert suspicion to his nerves. It is all his bad nerves, you must acknowledge, and never by any chance let on you suspect he may be just naturally a selfish, dishonest person demanding the indulgence of everybody else in order that he may get by without shouldering his share of responsibility for anything.
These grown-up "neurotics" or "neurothetics" or "bummies of nerves," as they incessantly call themselves, are just pampered, humored, coddled, spoiled, nasty-dispositioned children, and everything has been made so soft for them in childhood that they refuse to grow out of it and assume the independence of grown men and women. That's what the alibi of "nerves" is. If we are to give sympathy to anybody we should give it to the self-sacrificing, the kind-hearted brothers, the indigent parents, the faithful children who put up with the selfishness and ill-nature of these "nervous wrecks."
The nerve of this neurothetic writing to me for help and deliberately quoting the gist of my teaching as though to show me how contemptible he thinks my ideas on the subject are!
The way of neurothetics is always the same—dodge, evade, pretend, make-believe, play the little snob, try to make people think you are better than the common run of folk put on airs, in short be everything but honest with yourself and with your fellows.
Notice how these big crooks of high life invariably suffer with a "complete nervous breakdown" when they realize the game is up? They're as genuinely victims of bad nerves as any little weasel is who trumps up his nerves as an alibi when he's caught sucking eggs that do not belong to him.
Don't tell me you have bad nerves, you hypocrite. I've heard that one before.

THE ROACHES ARE BACK
Would be thankful if you would print in your column your remedy to exterminate roaches. We are greatly annoyed by these pests. (Mrs. W. L.)
Answer—No, it is too poisonous. Send stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for the instructions for ridding the premises of cockroaches.
T. N. T. Headache
In my opinion you are right in your contention that high-explosives are not absorbed through the skin. We used T. N. T. petrol and other explosives many times a day, handling the stuff barehanded like brown sugar. The few times I ever got a headache from blasting were when I went back too soon after a blast to prepare another charge in the same place. I believe one has to inhale the fumes or gas after the explosive has burned, to get any systemic effects. (W. D. R.)
Answer—Thank you. I think you are right. The unbroken skin never absorbs anything, and no one, not even Professor Kahlenberg, has proved that it can be done.

The Tinymites
By Hal Cochran
THE tin cans that were on parade a very dandy showing made. Of course they looked quite funny to the band of Tinymites.
The way they formed was quite a stunt. One type of cans was up in front. Then came another row of cans. All of all the cans rights!
King Sardine Can soon shouted, "Hey! You've marched enough now, for one day." And then he loudly cried out, "Halt!" The cans all stood real still.
"Break rank," said Scouty. "Be at ease. There come and meet us, if you please. We'll all be glad to know you, 'cause you've given us a thrill."
The little tin cans seemed real glad to end the long parade they'd had. They rushed up to the Tinymites and exclaimed, "Well, who are you?"
"We're Tinymites," weee Copy said. "About us you, no doubt, have read. We travel 'round to see the sights. You've shown us something new."
One little can seemed full of fun. It said, "If you like what we've done, why don't you do some stunt for us? I think that's only fair."
"All right," said Scouty. "We will do the best thing that we know, for you. We're pretty good at tumbling. Watch us tumble in the air."
For 'bout a half an hour or so the Tinymites put on quite a show. They climbed upon each other and did acrobatic tricks.
And then they heard a tin can cry, "Help!" A dog went running by. The can was tied tight to its tail. My, what an awful fix.
"Hey! Catch the dog. Release the can!" cried Windy. Then the Tinymites ran until wee Scouty grabbed the dog and held him very tight.
The little can soon was untied. "Oh, thank you, Tinymites," it cried. "A youngster tied me to that dog, but now I am all right."

One explanation of the Japanese withdrawal from Shanghai that hasn't been given yet is that the Japanese decided that continued shooting of the Chinese might result in ill-feeling there.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Old Practical Joke
You sent me your instructions for taking an iodine ration. I got the iodine at the drugstore. It was labeled Poison. Did they sell me the wrong kind? (Mrs. W. H.)
Answer—No, they don't carry the joke as far as that. The quaint custom of putting a poison label on iodine is funny in view of the fact that druggists sell all sorts of real poisons without compunction or label. A lot of simple minded persons have used iodine in a kind of suicide gesture, but a bit of excited shooting of the Chinese might result. As a poison iodine is a dismal failure. But the druggists will have their little joke.

Seen And Heard In New York
BY WILLIAM GAINES
New York — Amelia Earhart's name sounds "Airheart" when you pronounce it exactly as it should be. Which seems appropriate enough.
Katherine Mauk, one of Broadway's new dazlers, has that rare combination of blond hair (not platinum, either) and brown eyes. If you don't believe the gold is genuine, just you write to her mama in San Angelo, Texas, or to the mayor, or any of the home town folks.
It is amusing the way so many of the girls turn blond after they hit the big city and begin job hunting around the playhops. Must be the climate.
Young Seymour Schulberg, son of B. P. S., the Hollywood production big shot, is one of this year's crop of graduates at the academy up Deerfield, Mass. The elder Schulberg came east to experience that paternal chest-swelling.
For The Irish
An Irish gentleman at a party the other night seemed to think his race has a justifiable grievance against the city. He complained that, despite the large part the Irish have played in the political history of New York, there are very few streets with Irish names. As he is a life-long resident of this town, everybody else appeared duly impressed by his observation.
"There's Delancey street, and — and —"
No one could help him out, which shows how bad memories can be under party conditions. There are quite a few street names hereabouts that have an Irish sound. At any rate, all of us have known Irishmen named Gleason, Halperin, Kearny, Meagher, Milligan, and so on.
There's a Coogan's alley, and a bit of investigation shows that the O'Briens and the Kellys haven't been neglected, either.
Autograph Hunters
The boys and girls who pester celebrities for their autographs are getting to be more and more of a nuisance. The crowd of them, which press about theater exits and invade the orchestra rows to board well known persons in their seats, men and women old enough to know better are found along with the youngsters. So strenuous has the scramble for autographs become that many hunters figure it worth while to pay admission on opening nights and get at famous people where they can't run away.
I went backstage at the Casino at the end of a Saturday matinee. Around the stage door the signature seekers were so thick that a call had to be made for a policeman to clear a path for the performers.
Tess Gardell, whom you may know better as the perfectly huge Aunt Jemima, had an injured ankle and could barely move her avoidu-boys. She took one look at the mob on the sidewalk, thrusting their books and programs toward her for her to sign, and demanded that the stage manager get her safely through the front way.
A taxi was called for Paul Robeson. The stage manager got in front of him and led interference through the autograph hunters' lines. Paul, as big as any fullback you ever saw, charged after him. Just as he jumped into the cab a girl caught his coat and ripped it.

BATTLE OF THE OISE
On June 8, 1918, shortly before midnight, the Germans, concentrating on a drive to the Marne, met a strong Allied force on the banks of the Oise and were repulsed after a terrific battle.
More than 400,000 men were massed on a 20-mile front, from Montdidier to Noyon. North of this sector the Germans held the attention of British troops by a constant pounding of gunfire.
This battle, which was to wage back and forth for days, brought to light the fact that Germany was mobilizing 16-year-old boys, old men and convicts in a last desperate effort to strengthen her weary troops.
The first assault was made on French lines near Hautbray, between the Aisne and the Oise, but the French successfully withstood the assault and even staged a counter attack.

Your Birthday

BY MARY BLAKE
"GEMINI"

If June 9th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:45 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 4 p. m. and from 10:10 p. m. to 11:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:20 a. m. to 8:30 a. m. and from 1 p. m. to 2:30 p. m.

Turbulent influences will be in force on June 9th, and it will be a trying, but not necessarily an unfortunate time. Everybody should take special precautions against accidents, as a relatively high proportion is shown. Those who have passed middle life should guard against intestinal complaints.

The child born on this June 9th will develop into a manly man or a womanly woman. There will be nothing spectacular in its make-up, but its character will not be colourless. It will be a resourceful worker, and it will not have to be reminded of its duties. It will be far more affectionate than it appears to be, and its loyalty will be a safe bet.

Born on June 9th, nature started you out with a good equipment, and it was intended that you go far. You were not built to be a figure head, or a cat's paw to rake the chestnuts for others. You are too vital and energetic to be a loiterer along the primrose paths of life. The mechanism of your mind is rather slow and heavy, and you go about your work in a methodical and industrious way, indicative of success and efficiency. You are cautious and prudent in the administration of your affairs. There is too little of the gambling spirit in you for you to ever land big fish. You progress slowly but steadily and build brick upon brick—your structures are made to last.

As a man, you would be a willing slave to the wants of your own family, your own selfishness, thereby creating selfishness in your offspring. It is your desire to leave behind you a liberal competence for your dependents. You are not, however, soft and easy in your dealings with the outside world, and exact the last ounce of service or the last penny of money which is due you. You have few hobbies, and a retirement from an active life would leave you mentally and physically stranded.

ed. You will leave youth and romance behind you at an early age.

Successful People Born on June 9th:

- 1—James Henry Darlington, Bishop, head of U. S. Relief Fund to Serbia.
- 2—George Stephenson, builder of Rocket, pioneer railroad engine.
- 3—Sylvanus Thayer, "Father of U. S. Military Academy."

4—John Howard Payne, actor, author of "Home Sweet Home."

5—Peter Henderson, horticulturist.

6—Henry T. Eddy, mathematician and educator.

Widsteen Is Commander Of Knights

PERCY E. Widsteen was elected commander of Appleton Commandery, No. 29, Knights Templar, at the meeting Monday night at the Masonic temple. Other officers are James E. Wagg, generalissimo; Edwin Grundeman, captain-general; Rex J. Wells, senior warden; and Frank G. Wheeler, junior warden.

Announcement was made of a special meeting to be held next Monday night when the order of the Red Cross and the order of Malta will be conferred.

About 125 knights and ladies of St. Bernard Commandery, Chicago, will come to Appleton on a special train June 25 for a meeting to which all surrounding commanderies and officers of the grand commandery have been invited.

An exhibition drill will be given by the Chicago drill team in the afternoon in front of Lawrence Memorial chapel, and a 6:30 dinner will be served at the temple for knights and ladies. Work in the order of the Temple will be put on in the evening by officers of St. Bernard Commandery. There are 42 members in the drill team. About 400 persons are expected to attend the ceremonies.

About 100 persons are expected to attend the picnic of Mooseheart Legion which will be held June 19 in Appleton, the local Moose and Women of the Moose acting as hosts and hostesses.

The activities will begin at 1:30 in the afternoon, and the men will initiate and hold a business meeting. While the women are entertained at cards at Hotel Northern. A program of Hawaiian selections by Al Cude, dance, and whistling numbers by George Lausman will be given at 5 o'clock, and the banquet will be served at Hotel Northern at 6 o'clock. Dancing at Moose hall will provide entertainment in the evening.

Plans for the annual picnic of Delta chapter, Employees Mutual Benefit association to be held sometime in July will be made at the chapter meeting at 2:30 Thursday afternoon at Odd Fellow hall. Arrangements for the last social of the season on June 23 will be discussed.

JESKE NAMED AS DELEGATE TO ENCAMPMENT

Louis Jeske was elected delegate to the state encampment of United Spanish War Veterans which will be held June 23, 24, and 25 at Baraboo, at the meeting of Charles O. Baer camp Tuesday night at the armory. Aaron Zertel was named alternate. There is only one delegate and one alternate from each camp because all past commanders have a vote at the convention. Twenty-six members were present.

Gives Talk On Women Of India

MISS Caroline Schaefer of India spoke on the Women of India at the meeting of the Social Union, held at Pierce park Tuesday afternoon in connection with the annual church picnic.

Mrs. J. R. Denyes, president of the Social Union was presented with a gift of pewter by the members of the group. Mrs. Denyes will graduate from Lawrence college next week.

The C. C. Bailey Sunday School class was in charge of recreation for the children in the afternoon, and at 6 o'clock supper was served to over 500 members of the Social Union, Men's club and Sunday School.

Mrs. W. S. Ryan, 1103 N. Morris-st. will entertain the Socialists of First Baptist church at 2:30 Thursday afternoon at her home. Mrs. Peter Stallman will have charge of current events. Mrs. Ernest Hasselblad will lead the devotional, and roll call will be answered with Bible memory verses. Each member will give a five minute talk on a biography of their choice.

Mrs. Louis Stoh, Brewster-st. will be hostess to the Ladies Aid society of First Reformed church at 2:30 Thursday afternoon at her home. Plans for helping to finance the church project will be made, and arrangements will be discussed for helping the men of the church with a box social for all members of the church and their friends Thursday, June 16.

The last meeting of Ladies Aid society of St. Joseph church for the summer was held Tuesday afternoon at the parish hall. There was no social hour. Although there will be no summer meetings, the Thursday afternoon card parties will continue after this week.

Arrangements for a picnic the first Tuesday in July at a place to be set later were made at the meeting of Ladies Aid society of Memorial Presbyterian church Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Louise Heller, 302 N. Rankin-st. Twenty-two members were present. A social hour followed the business meeting.

Sixty young people of St. Paul Lutheran church held an outdoor meeting Tuesday night at Sunset Point. The seniors were hosts to the junior young people. The group sang songs and told stories around the campfire, and winners and marshmallows were roasted. The seniors will hold another meeting in two weeks.

The music circle of the Women's Union of First Baptist church which was scheduled for Thursday will be held at 2:30 Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Carl Ebert, 1210 N. Badger-ave. Mrs. William Madison will be in charge of the program of patriotic music.

The Missionary society of First Reformed church will meet at 7:30 Wednesday night with Miss Louise Kippinhan, 1315 S. Mason-st. Miss Kippinhan will have charge of the Stewardship program.

A meeting of Zion Lutheran Brotherhood of Zion Lutheran church was held Tuesday night at the parish school auditorium. A social hour took place and refreshments were served.

Child Must Learn How He Can Save

BY ANGELO PATRI

Monday morning mother handed Sam and Sid their allowances. Sid said "Thanks, mom." and stuck his in his pocket without counting it. Sam said, "Thank you. Did you remember, mother, that you owed me two cents since last Friday for the newspaper I brought you?" That's right. Thank you. Then he carefully counted the money in his purse, counted the money just given him, made an entry in his book, and looked up his funds in his private drawer.

"For goodness sake, what's keeping you," demanded Sid, prancing on the doorstep. "Come on. We'll be late. I want to stop in the stationery store, too."

"Plenty of time. What are you going to get in the shop?"

"Paper. Got to get them paper. Term essay this week you know."

"O, yes. Look here, Sid. Take this pack. It's more than that one, about twice as much paper. And it costs only two cents more."

"It isn't as good paper of course," said the shopkeeper, who knew his Sam.

"Oh, that's all right. Take that one Sid. It'll be enough for both of us. I left my money home."

"I thought I'd get good paper. I'd like to win the prize. Gee, I could use twenty-five dollars this summer."

"Well, you can win it just as well on twelve cent paper as on twenty. Come ahead. We'll be late."

Sid took the package of paper and the two hurried along to school. When they found their seats in the classroom Sid divided the paper in half and gave Sam one share, gave Katie Smith, who never had anything of the sort when it was needed, enough for her work, and put the rest in his desk ready for the essay writing. "Gee, I wonder what the subject will be. Hope it's something I know something about, that's all. I need the money."

Miss Horan, the English teacher looked nervous. She hated prize essays. But duty was duty. She tapped her desk with her finger nail and the class sat at attention. "You will write the prize essay this morning. Paper to be white, seven by eleven. One side only. As many words as you like. As much time as you need. Write when you are ready."

There was a swish of paper, then silence. The teacher spoke again to the tense group sitting with pens poised and paper waiting, as though for a race. "The subject will be: How to Spend Twenty-five Dollars."

Sid looked incredulous for a full second. Then understanding joy lighted his face and he set to work. "Of course you won't," said his mother laughing. "It was your own subject."

When the results were announced Sid had the reward. "Well," said Aunt Martha who hated a spendthrift, "I'll give Sam ten dollars for a prize if he writes a good essay on how to save twenty-five dollars."

Sam looked gratified. He got out his paper and pen and sat thinking. He thought for a long time. Sid came through the room and Sam said, "Say, Sid, write me a paper on how to save that twenty-five and I'll divide the money with you."

"I would if I could," said Sid. "But I don't know how to save it. I'll give you half my prize. I was going to anyway."

Well, both of them need advice, instruction and supervision. Using money is the sort of work that needs experience, balance and understanding. Children are not born with those qualities.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

MISS STOLZMAN OF GREENVILLE BECOMES BRIDE

Miss Nora Stolzman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stolzman, Greenville, and Clarence Schroeder, son of Mr. and Mrs. August Schroeder, Greenville, will be married at 7:30 Wednesday evening at Greenville Lutheran church. The Rev. Leonard Casper will perform the ceremony. The couple will be attended by Miss Hazel Loos, John Stolzman, Elmer Schroeder, Greenville; Miss Ruth Prasher, Appleton and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Bohl, Greenville.

Following the ceremony, there will be a supper at the Stolzman home, after which the couple will leave for a two weeks motor trip to Yellowstone National park. On their return they will be at home to friends at 821 N. Division-st, Appleton. Mr. Schroeder is employed by the Brett-Schneider Furniture company.

"For goodness sake, what's keeping you," demanded Sid, prancing on the doorstep. "Come on. We'll be late. I want to stop in the stationery store, too."

"Plenty of time. What are you going to get in the shop?"

"Paper. Got to get them paper. Term essay this week you know."

Women Pick Chairmen To Plan Golf

TWO golf chairmen for each month during the summer were appointed at a meeting of women golfers of Riverview Country club Tuesday at the club. Mrs. M. T. Ray is general golf chairman. Mrs. J. L. Jacquot and Mrs. R. K. Wolter were appointed for June. Mrs. Grace K. Sensesbrenner and Mrs. Harry Price, Neenah, were named for July, and Mrs. William Rounds and Mrs. Gerald Galpin were chosen to serve for August.

There will be a tournament each Tuesday at the club, and bridge will be played also. An attempt will be made to work up a club tournament for women this year. The first Tuesday of each month will be the best day, when there will be no greens fee.

Forty women attended the luncheon and meeting Tuesday. Small parties were entertained by Mrs. J. E. Thomas and Mrs. John F. King. A regular buffet dinner will be served Thursday night at the club.

WAS NO DECOY

Denver, Col.—Sheriff Walter P. Mayne went duck hunting some time ago. He caught 12 wild geese in a trap and staked them around his blind as decoys. Herman and Charles Reyher, also out hunting saw the geese and fired at them. Three shotgun slugs hit Sheriff Mayne. He sued for damages to his person and collected $700.

TWIN TRAMPS

Knoxville, Tenn.—Jailer Waugh of the city jail tells a strange story about twin brothers meeting here. The brothers, 67 years old, went under the name of Williams. They were prosperous once, and separated $5 years ago. Their first meeting since then occurred in Nashville a few days ago. Both were tramps headed back east.

CAN'T DRINK WATER

An Irishman was relating an experience of hardship in the jungle. "Ammunition, food and whisky had run out," he said. "We were parched with thirst."

"Was there no water?" asked a listener.

"Shure, but it was no time to think of cleanliness," replied the Irishman.—Tit-Bits.

TWO CLASSES OF GRADUATES GET DIPLOMAS TODAY

Commencement Programs to Be Held at High School, Hospital

Neenah—Two graduating exercises will be held this evening, one at Theda Clark Hospital School of Nursing and the other at the high school. Six graduates at the hospital while at the high school there is a class of 118, the largest in the history of the school.

The program at the school of nursing, beginning at 8 o'clock, will open with a march played by Mrs. Annette Sundahl Matheson, followed by invocation by the Rev. T. J. Reydal, pastor of First Methodist church. Carl McKee of Appleton, will sing two solos, "Vulcan Song" by Gounod, and "A Spirit Flower" by Campbell-Tipton. Dr. Siles Evans, president of Ripon college, will be the principal speaker. Following his address Miss Grace Forlin of Menasha, will sing two solos, "Were My Song With Wings Provided" by Hahn, and "Starry Night" by Denmore, after which Dr. T. D. Smith will give an address, followed by presentation of diplomas and school pins, presentation of school spirit cup and awarding of scholarships by Dr. E. B. Clark, president of the board of trustees. Dr. Williamson will give the address to the class followed by benediction by the Rev. Mr. Reydal.

Members of the class are Lydia A. Bessert of Reedsville; Catherine A. Cartwright of Oshkosh; Angelina M. Knuth and Grace E. Sanders of Appleton; Ethel M. Mortenson of Neenah; and Maureen M. Remmel of Menasha.

CALL INQUEST IN DEATH OF NEENAH MAN

Body of George Julius Found With Bullet Holes in Chest, Head

Neenah—George Julius, 55, a resident of this city and vicinity all his life, was found dead at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening in the attic of his home on Harrison-st. Five bullet holes from a .22-caliber revolver were found in his body and head. He had been ill the past two years.

The body was found by his wife, before to accompany some callers to the home of relatives. Upon her return home, all windows and doors were found closed. Upon gaining entrance through a window, Mrs. Julius found her husband's clothes on a chair and noticed the attic door was open. Upon investigation she found the body on the floor. Blood stains on the stairway indicated that the man had fired some of the shots while down stairs and then crawled to the upper room. Three bullets were fired into the body near the heart, one through the left cheek, and one in the temple above the left cheek. The gun was found beside the body. In his hand was heard several shells. Neighbors heard shots but believed that some children were lighting fireworks.

Coroner Martin Potratz was summoned. With a jury composed of J. F. Gillingham, Albert Koepsel, William Klassen, George Burnside, P. A. Hazell and Thomas Thomsen, he visited the scene, viewed the body and adjourned until next Tuesday afternoon when the inquest will be held.

Julius was born in town of Clayton, coming to Neenah when a young man. Surviving are the widow, two brothers, Henry Julius of Neenah; Edward Julius of Seattle, Wash.; and two sisters, Mrs. Gus Breaker and Mrs. Emil Krause of Oshkosh.

WEGE SETS PACE IN FOUR-MAN LEAGUE

Neenah—A new warm-weather bowler turned up Monday evening in the person of Frank Wege, who rolled a 602 series on games of 199, 213 and 190 in the Four-man team league at Joseph Muench's alley. Muench rolled high single game on 224 and Weinke Grocers rolled high series.

Super Services won three games from Gilbert Papers, Bergstrom Papers won a pair from Home Fuels, and Weinke Grocers won three from Kucklenbeckers.

Scores: Weinke Grocers—748, 727, 704; Kucklenbeckers—622, 632, 695; Home Fuels—692, 720, 685; Bergstrom Papers—658, 729, 709; Gilbert Papers—640, 674, 658; Super Services—622, 693, 714.

Standings:

Super Services	19	2
Weinke Grocers	18	2
Bergstrom Papers	7	5
Home Fuels	6	6
Gilbert Papers	3	9
Kucklenbeckers	2	10

ISLAND MERCHANTS PLAYED A PRACTICE GAME WITH NEENAH TAXIS

Washington school diamond, winning by a score of 23 and 0. The schedule for Wednesday evening is: Durham Lumbers and Klee-nax at Loudon diamond, Neenah Taxis and Lakeview at Doty park; Whiting Papers and Wisconsin Telephones at Columbian park.

COUNCIL TURNS DOWN BIDS FOR SEWER, GUTTER

New Contracts Will Specify Local Labor, Aldermen Decide

Menasha—All bids on construction of the proposed Kaukauna-st. curb and gutter were rejected by the common council at a regular meeting Tuesday evening and new bids, returnable June 21 and specifying that local labor shall be employed, will be sought.

The project, which has been under consideration over a long period, provides for a uniform width of Kaukauna-st. of 42 feet and a curb and gutter from Main to Lush-st. Seven bids on the project were received Tuesday, the Fred Holtz company of Appleton quoting the lowest price, $978.

Several other public improvement projects received attention at Tuesday's session.

A recommendation of the street committee to grant the petition for construction of a sewer on Eighth-st. between Appleton and DePere-sts was approved and the board of public works was authorized to secure plans and specifications and to hold hearings on the project. The street committee's recommendation that a petition for a sidewalk on the north side of Nicolet-blvd be granted also was passed.

May Open Street

A petition for the opening of Manitowish to Ninth-st was received and following a recess, a motion authorizing the city attorney to secure options on the necessary property was approved. In answer to a request by Alderman Philip Michalkiewicz, Melvin Crowley, city attorney, reported that a strip of land necessary for the opening of Fifth-st., an abandoned railway right-of-way, could not be obtained by the railroad, and that condemnation proceedings would be necessary to secure the property.

In addition to the Kaukauna-st. curb and gutter bids to be received at the next meeting, proposals on two carloads of crown rock and on coal for city use will be sought, it was decided.

A report on the proposed Water-sewer was submitted by E. M. Kohn, city engineer. He outlined the two plans created after a recent sewage disposal survey conducted under the auspices of the Fox River Valley Municipalities league, and suggesting that construction of the Water-sewer be delayed until a decision was reached on the permanent plan to be used. Alderman Grode maintained that immediate action should be taken and Mayor Remmel spoke briefly of the recent hearing relative to the retaining wall on the north shore of the government canal and the eventual need for action on the small sewer outlets into the canal from Water-st.

Reports relative to repairs on the Garfield-ave. DePere-st. Tavo-st. Third-st. and Racine-st railroad crossings were presented and Mayor Remmel added that a statement made at a recent council meeting relative to alleged allowing of children to crawl beneath trains at one of the crossings had been proven to be false.

Will Repair Dock

The street committee was given power to act on necessary repairs of the Menasha dock, and on motion of Alderman Heckrodt was ordered to establish a safety zone for pedestrians at the intersection of Main and Tavo-sts. Following a report by Alderman Grode relative to the need for manholes for the Nassau-st. sewer, the street committee was given power to act. Alderman Sennsberger suggested the removal of a machine or tool shed on the Second ward playground and Alderman Grode suggested similar action on a building near the city water tower.

Joseph Stomach was elected to the board of review on the first formal ballot, polling five votes to four for John Schreiber. Peter Kasel, superintendent of streets, was appointed weed commissioner at $1 per week. Petitions for oiling Oak-st and for the construction of a sidewalk on Fifth-st east of Manitowish-st were referred to the street committee.

Conservative Council member followed Alderman Gillan's suggestion that a plan used in several other cities, in which unused land is made available for gardens for needy families, be considered by the Menasha poor committee. Alderman Grode maintained that the action would be useless this late in the season, but McGillan's motion that the matter be left in the hands of the poor committee will not go to act was approved, 3 to 3.

LIBRARY CIRCULATES 6,613 BOOKS IN MAY

Menasha—Circulation of books at the Menasha public library totaled 6,613 during May, marking a gain of 1,155 over the corresponding month of last year, according to the monthly report of Miss Harriet Northrup, librarian. Average daily circulation was 276; reading room attendance 1,153; books repaired, 520; books circulated on teachers' cards, 73; and students assisted 84. Fines collected on overdue books totaled $15.09; new readers registered, 51; and new books prepared for circulation, 207.

MANY SWIMMERS AT MUNICIPAL BEACH

Neenah—The municipal bathing beach has been popular since it opened a few days ago, according to Ole Jorgenson, who is in charge. It was estimated that as many as 500 have taken advantage of the two bathhouses since Saturday. The extreme hot weather of Sunday brought out the largest patronage. Now that schools have closed it is expected the daily attendance will be increased.

BYLOW CAPTAIN OF 1933 TRACK SQUAD

Neenah—John Bylow, a senior next year has been chosen as captain of the 1933 high school track team. The selection was made Tuesday morning following the award of letters to 1932 trackmen. The young man was one of six representing the high school track squad at the state meet at Madison.

DISTRIBUTE ST. MARY ANNUAL TO STUDENTS

Menasha—"The Renard," St. Mary high school annual, was distributed to students Tuesday afternoon. The 38 page publication, bound in blue leather and dedicated to the Rev. Joseph Becker, principal of St. Mary high school, was edited by students headed by Miss Elsie Laux. Marvin Clough was business manager.

The 1932 year book is the third of its kind at St. Mary high school and contains a resume of student life and activities during the 1931-32 term.

COUNCIL ASKED TO WARD CLUB MEETING

Aldermen Invited to Attend Gathering of Citizen's Group

Menasha—An invitation to attend a meeting of the central organization of the five Menasha ward clubs June 14 was extended to city officials by F. G. Dexter, president of the central group, at a meeting of the council here Tuesday evening.

Dexter, as president, was official spokesman for a large delegation of ward club representatives in attendance at the meeting.

Dexter opened his talk by stating that the ward club organization, throughout the city, sponsored by Henry J. Leese, post of American Legion, had nothing to do with the recent action of the common council relative to school board appointments, explaining that plans for the clubs had anti-tariffed that aldermanic action. The campaign of the citizens' groups, he stated, was one of education and publicity, designed to make the city a better place in which to live.

Voters, heretofore, have been insufficiently interested and informed about city affairs, and much could be accomplished through friendly cooperation between the clubs and the city officials, he added. Extending the invitation to attend the central group meeting at the Menasha library auditorium June 14, Dexter said it would be a "friendly get-together," at which a number of short talks from city officials as well as club members will be expected.

MENASHA SOCIETY

Menasha—St. Thomas Guild was to be entertained at its annual picnic at the summer home of Mrs. G. A. Comstock Wednesday. An all day program was planned.

The annual St. Thomas Episcopal church school picnic will be held at the Troop 3 scout cabin grounds on the east shore of Lake Winnebago Saturday. A large attendance is expected.

The Peppy Eight club was entertained by Mrs. J. Heckrodt at the home of Mrs. Eli Clough Tuesday afternoon. Honors at cards went to Mrs. M. Riesch, Mrs. George Powers, and Mrs. J. Kolanski.

Twin City Odd Fellows will meet in their lodge rooms here Wednesday evening. Routine lodge work is planned.

A meeting of the Quintette club, scheduled for Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Dorroff, was postponed until next week.

The Double Four club will be entertained at the home of Mrs. George Powers, Wednesday evening. Cards will be played.

Miss Ruby Peterson of Watersmeet, Mich., was feted at a surprise party at the home of Mrs. Robert Gear, Jr. Monday afternoon. Bridge feasted the entertainment program and lunch was served.

Junior group of the Congregational church will meet at the home of Mrs. Carl Anderson Nicolet-blvd, Wednesday evening. The evening will be spent socially.

PLAN IMPROVEMENTS AT WARD PLAYGROUND

Menasha—Plans for erecting a fence and making other improvements at the Second ward playground on Tavo and Second-sts were outlined at a meeting of the park board in the Memorial building Tuesday evening. The Second ward lot, equipped with a wading pool and other facilities, has been unusually popular with younger children.

The board also decided to lay out two additional softball diamonds on the Ben Plowright property at Tavo and Sixth-sts and to cut grass on other diamonds maintained throughout the city. A considerable amount of routine business was transacted.

CONSIDER SALE OF PROPERTY AT BEACH

Menasha—A conference with Joseph Schneider of Milwaukee relative to the proposed sale of the city of property adjacent to the municipal bathing beach on Lake Winnebago was conducted by the common council at the city offices Tuesday evening. A report on the several proposals submitted at the conference is expected at the next council meeting.

Court fines totaling $247 had been collected.

Change Is Refused

A communication from Senator John Blaine, relative to a resolution sent to him by the council urging changes in the postoffice building under construction here, indicated that the proposed change in material for the outer walls, from brick to stone, had been refused by treasury department officials.

Explaining that a number of women had complained that soot and ash from the Wisconsin Tissue Mills stack had soiled washings in parts of the Second ward last Monday, Mayor Remmel stated that new apparatus is to be installed at the mill and that the difficulty will be eliminated. Following the reading of water and light commission minutes, Mayor Remmel expressed his appreciation for the prompt reports of the commission and of the city park board.

CHILD GUIDANCE IS PRESENT NEED

KIWANIANS TOLD

Alexander Benz, Appleton, Is Speaker at Menasha Service Club Meeting

Menasha—"Each Kiwanian who is interested in his community and country should take it upon himself to properly guide young people of his community," Alexander Benz, chairman of the underprivileged child committee of the Appleton Kiwanis club, told Menasha Kiwanians at a meeting in Hotel Menasha Tuesday noon.

Classifying underprivileged children those under 18 who are deprived of opportunity for proper physical, moral or mental development, Benz said that the number of totally or partially underprivileged children in the United States has been estimated at 15,000,000.

A great problem, made greater by the depression, is the proper guidance of children with regard to character training, he stated, adding that adult inefficiency and negligence is largely responsible for so-called juvenile delinquency. Proper guidance of the thousands of high school graduates, who, because of inactivity may get wrong aspects of government and the future of the country, he deemed a particular need. The work would result in individual as well as community benefit.

Edwin S. Shortess, of Chicago, field service representative of Kiwanis international spoke briefly at Tuesday's session, and the inter-club relations committee of the Oshkosh organization was introduced by H. Auler, Elgie Springside of Oshkosh, Kiwanis district lieutenant governor and a member of the committee invited the Menasha Kiwanians to a meeting at Oshkosh June 21.

THREE-ACT COMEDY PRESENTED BY CLUB

Menasha—"What Became of Parker," a farce comedy in three acts, was presented by the Goodfellowship club of Trinity Lutheran church before a capacity audience in the Lutheran school auditorium Tuesday evening. The play, directed by Mrs. George Berger and Miss Dorcas Page, also was presented at a children's matinee Sunday.

George Berger appeared as Fred Parker, a wholesale dry goods merchant; Richard Pomeranka as William Torrence, his partner; a retired business man; Earl Page as James Jones; Edward Burr as Mr. Harrison, a Chicago capitalist; William Page as Dr. Rogers; Edward Dix, Sr. as Police Sergeant Ripley; Walter Thornton as Otto, a waiter; Earl and Emil Tews as guards; Mrs. Walter Thornton as Vivian, Parker's wife; Mrs. Albert Berendts as Mildred Green, her maiden aunt; Mrs. Earl Page as Hebe Worthing, Grover's niece; and Mrs. Fred Lehman as Cora, a maid at the Parker home.

SEALED BIDS SOUGHT ON POSTAL EQUIPMENT

Menasha—Sealed bids on a number of items will be received at the Menasha postoffice until 3 o'clock on the afternoon of June 15, according to official notices. Proposals are sought on electric power for the cancelling machine for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1933; on 200 gallons of gasoline, on precanceling approximately 1,000 sheets of stamps, on laundry service, on mechanical labor for repair of a government truck, and on a safety deposit box.

TWIN CITY DEATHS

Charles Ehrigott

Neenah—Funeral services for Charles Ehrigott, 612 Main-st., will be held at the residence of William Ehrigott, 412 Fourth-st., at 1:30 Thursday afternoon and at St. Paul's Lutheran church at 2 o'clock. The Rev. C. E. Fritz will officiate and interment will be in Oak Hill cemetery.

GIVE HISTORY BOOKS TO MENASHA LIBRARY

Menasha—A 10 volume set of books, "The Literary Digest History of the World War," has been given to the Menasha library by Mrs. John Chapman and will be available for use by library patrons within a few days. More than 200 new books were catalogued and prepared for circulation at the library during the past month.

COLORFUL PAGEANT GIVEN BY PUPILS

"Picture Book Towne" Presented at Winnebago Day School

Menasha—"Picture Book Towne," a colorful pageant depicting the life of George Washington, featured the outdoor program presented by pupils of the Winnebago Day school in a stage at the school grounds Tuesday afternoon.

Kindergarten pupils appearing as the Colonial soldier's band opened the program with a number of musical selections. In the pageant, Patty Smiley appeared as Ann Fairway; Jeanne Lawson as Nanny; Ken Dickinson as Davy; Carolyn Smith as the Picture Book Man; William Strange as General George Washington; Polly Mahler as Lady Martha Washington; Mary Shattuck as Nellie Curtis; Talbot Peterson as Lafayette; Mary Stuart as Mary Ball Washington; Susan Kimberly, Mary Hoyt Cowles and Kimmie Stuart as slaves and Beryl Nelson as a page.

First and second grade pupils danced the minuet; fourth and fifth grade pupils danced the Virginia Reel, and group songs completed the program.

INVITE OFFICIALS TO SOCIETY CONVENTION

Menasha—An invitation to city officials to participate in the celebration in conjunction with the national convention of Alma Mater societies in Menasha June 19, 20, 21 and 22 was extended by the Rev. W. B. Polaczky at a regular meeting of the common council Tuesday evening.

On the opening day of the meeting, delegates are expected to arrive in Menasha on a special train from Chicago and march to convention headquarters at Hotel Menasha. A social program at Falcon hall on the evening of the same day is planned. Following the Rev. Polaczky's brief talk, the council officially accepted the invitation.

ORIOLE SOFTBALLERS DEFEAT CANDY SHOP

Menasha—After several days of inactivity, the Second ward Orioles resumed play Tuesday by defeating the Burt Candy Shop team of Neenah, 7 to 6, on the Wisconsin Tissue Mills diamond here. Voss, Trilling and Resch made up the winning battery, while Menning worked on the mound for the Neenah squad.

Two home runs by Orioles hitters gave the Menasha squad its victory. Kuech drove out the first home run in the second inning with two runners on the bags, and Fahrenkrug, first to bat in the third, repurged.

LANDGRAF APPOINTED DEPUTY TAX COLLECTOR

Menasha—H. E. Landgraf, cashier of the First National bank of Menasha, has been appointed deputy income tax collector for Menasha by Earl E. Fuller, Winnebago county treasurer. The income taxes will be paid up to and including July 1 without penalty, but after that date a two cent cash penalty and a 1 per cent per month interest charge will be made against unpaid accounts, officials have announced.

EXPECT SHIPMENT OF STONE FOR POSTOFFICE

Menasha—A shipment of Manitowish stone for use in outside corners and round windows of the new federal postoffice building under construction at Broad and Racine-sts was expected to arrive in Menasha today. Work on the walls of the first story will be started this week, it is expected.

BOARD OF EDUCATION MEETS THIS EVENING

Menasha—The board of education will meet at the high school building at 7 o'clock Wednesday evening. Dr. F. M. Corry, chairman, will preside and a considerable amount of routine business will be transacted.

REPORT FINE CATCH

Menasha—After several hours of fishing, the Garfield island in Lake Winnebago C. A. Heckrodt, city treasurer, and Nathan Calder, Menasha high school athletic director, brought in their limit in pike in addition to a number of silver bass Tuesday evening. The two veteran anglers immediately had snap shots taken of their catch to substantiate their stories.

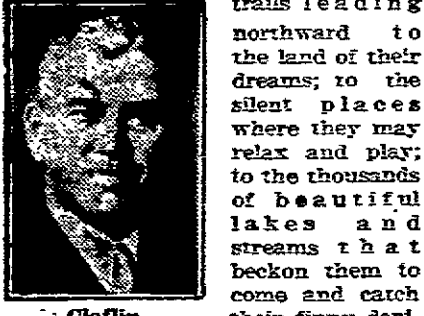

Mayor C. E. Remmel today reported that he had landed two pike by merely stumbling over them as he entered his home Tuesday evening. The two fish, cleaned and ready for use, had been left in his doorway by an unidentified donor.

TOURISTS BEGIN MIGRATING TO BADGER LAKES

Closing of Schools Starts
Annual Trek to Vacation Centers

BY BERT CLAFIN
As the school period ends in the various states about Wisconsin the annual tourist migration to our great Land O' Lakes region begins.
Thousands of people will hit the long trails leading northward to the land of their dreams; to the sleest places where they may relax and play;
to the thousands of beautiful
lakes and streams that beckon them come and catch their finny devils.

Clafin

The tourist business is a mammoth one. In normal times as much as $150,000,000 is spent within the borders of Wisconsin in a single season. Every resident of the state directly or indirectly benefits by it. It is a business, therefore, that should have every consideration. Selfish individual motives should be ignored. There should be no political intrigue connected with its maintenance.

We have a Conservation commission, the six members of which are appointed by the Governor to administer the affairs of conservation. The opinion prevalent about the state is that, after a certain amount of weeding out was brought about, capable individuals have at last been induced to accept the thankless jobs as commissioners.

And it is indeed a thankless job. There is no salary connected with the position, and about the only thanks the individual members get is criticism for their acts, no matter whether they pertain to the forestry branch, the park service or the fish and game division.

Public Criticism
Perhaps many of their acts may well be criticised. No one is a hundred percent perfect. The members of the commission are undoubtedly conscientious in their recommendations, but, right or wrong, they are criticised, and that is something which is never worse even though it comes to the administrators of any department commanding a good salary.

That the tourist business is of tremendous value to the state of Wisconsin is obvious when the amount of money left in the state each year is considered. And for that reason the people are entitled to know how the commission is functioning—what is being done toward law enforcement, restocking our waters, etc.

Let us consider law enforcement. During April, 240 arrests were made as follows: Hunting violations, 17; fishing violations, 17; trapping, 39; burning without permit, 9; fraud in obtaining bounty, 1; possession of ferret, one, and buying fur without license, one. The total fines assessed for these transgressions was $2,065, that to be paid later, $525; total jail sentences, 3,165 days; dismissed and suspended, 50; to other courts, 17; cases open, 26; on probation and parole, 11; costs assessed, 3; cases lost, 2; deferred sentence, 2; and fines remitted, 2.

Wisconsin's newest state park and the third on the Mississippi river was established by the Conservation commission at its April meeting. This new park will be known as the Merrick State park. It contains approximately 1,600 acres and is located on Fountain City bay in Buffalo-co.

Donated by Latsch

The land contained in this park was given to the state by John A. Latsch of Winona, Minn., who also donated the land in which Péroit State park in Trempealeau-co is located. The new park raises the number of Wisconsin's state parks to 14. In addition to state parks there are four established state forests. State parks vary in size from the smallest which is First Capitol located near Belmont in Lafayette-co, comprising two acres; to Peninsula park in Door-co which contains 3,400 acres.

The new park is named in memory of the late George Byron Merrick, early Mississippi river steamboat pilot, Civil War veteran, historian and author. Mr. Merrick was the best known authority on upper Mississippi river history. His best known work is the one entitled "Old Times on the Upper Mississippi." In the Historical Library at Madison are several volumes of his scrapbooks on river days, boats and men, and also the Merrick collection of letters, memoranda and photographs.

Mr. Merrick was born in 1854, and spent his early boyhood at Prescott where his father had a steamboat warehouse. He began his river career as pantry boy on the steamboat "Kat Cassell." Later he was cub engineer, then second clerk, then cub pilot, and pilot on the great river boats. He was a veteran of the Civil War. At a later time Mr. Merrick was auditor of the University of Wisconsin, and spent his last years in Madison, where he died in 1931.

Nautical Lineage

Mr. Merrick came from a family of famous sailors. His ancestors sailed ships from Wales, England and Cape Cod in America for generations. During his Mississippi pilot days Captain Merrick knew personally all the famous Mississippi river steamboatmen including Samuel Clemens (Mark Twain), W. G. Tibbals, Louis Robert, Walter A. Blair, Russell Blakely, Daniel S. Harris, Grant Marsh and Horace E. Bixby.

Mr. Merrick has not only left a wonderful playground to the people of Wisconsin, but he also has left a fitting monument to a name that should be perpetuated for posterity. More than 1,600 men were employed in the first eight weeks of the unemployment relief program administered by the Conservation Department with the $500,000 made

CONVENTION HALL BEGINNING TO TAKE ON BRIGHT COLORS

First Scouts Already Arriving for Republican Battle in Chicago

Chicago — (P) — The first tinge of color today began to brighten the bud that will flower into a Republican national convention next week. It lit up alike the dusky interior of the convention hall and the highly ornamented halls of the Congress hotel as decorators started unfurling the miles of draperies that will swathe these two centers of convention activities.

About the Congress, where most of the work of the Republican national committee will be done, there was an air of expectancy. The clamor of hammers filled the stadium. The first scouts were arriving for the convention battle of 1932. Virtually all of the members of the national committee were settling down in their Chicago quarters preparatory to smoothing out disputes that have arisen in six delegations. They will take these up tomorrow and hear the contesting claims raised in Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina, Virginia and Tennessee.

On the surface, the political waters were smooth. Incoming national committee men and delegates voiced confidence that Hoover and Curtis would be renominated promptly, and harmoniously. Some held private opinions that the Republicans might find a better running mate for the president but declined to say whom they would substitute.

A majority of the newcomers believed the platform would contain a resubmission plank.

Much Detail Involved
These were not questions that worried the committee on arrangements, however. High up in the hotel, a tall, heavy, gray haired man with a ruddy face was wrestling with the multitude of problems of tickets, contracts, job-seekers and newspapermen. And less than a quarter of those who called at the suite of Ralph Williams, this hard working vice chairman of the Republican national committee, passed available by the special session of the legislature. Up until May 7 there were 2,185 pay checks issued, an average of $19 per man. The average length of time each man worked during the first eight weeks was nine and one-half days.

To date there have been 222 projects set up, of which 115 have been worked on in 24 counties. Of this $500,000 $153,169 had been allocated by May 7, of which $42,225 has been disbursed.

Practically all of the work to date has been in the construction of fire lanes, fire roads and labor on the erection of new lookout towers. The money disbursed under the unemployment relief program will practically all be spent for labor and necessary hand tools. None of it will be used for major equipment.

Finish 10 Towers

Ten of the new fire towers planned for this year's construction have been completed. Of the 33 towers, 21 are for new locations and 12 are replacements. These towers are all of the new and improved design. The structural engineer assigned to the Conservation Department from the State Chief Engineer's office, following detailed investigation, designed the new tower which combines the best features of state and federal towers already in use, with many new improvements.

The towers constructed during March and April in the 1932 program are, Wilson, Sand Island, Quincy, Twin Mounds, Camp Douglas, Norway Ridge, Clam Lake, Gransburg, Summit (Chaffey) and Hopkock (Bowler). All towers in the central area were completed and ready for use during the spring season, as were the more urgent towers in the northwestern area. In addition to those listed, the more urgent towers to which roads were passable in the northeastern area were completed by May 7.

WHO WERE THE PSYCHOLOGISTS?

Users of so-called "psychic" bids are fond of recounting their successes when lay-down games are not bid by their opponents and the psychic bidder escapes with a light penalty. As I have frequently pointed out, there is a vast difference between psychological bidding and bluff bids which parade under that name. A vivid illustration of what the players called psychic bidding, but which actually demonstrated that their opponents were the true psychologists, occurred in a recent tournament at the Hamilton Whist Club in Philadelphia. Seated North and South were two of Philadelphia's strongest players, both of whom had won a deserved reputation for their forays into the subtle language of making bids to conceal weakness, as well as to reveal strength. Their opponents were Mr. A. R. Jurgenson, who held the West hand, and Dr. I. H. Shelly, East. North—Dealer.

While they worked in this suite with its wide windows that looked out upon cloudy waters of Lake Michigan, the first hum of political gossip was being sounded in the up-hoistered lobby below. Delegates and national committeemen, becoming visible for the first time, threaded in and out among red-jacketed delegates to an insurance convention. There was former Senator Patrick J. Sullivan of Wyoming, wearing a broad western sombrero, and with a broad slice of Irish in his face and his voice. He thought the country was 90 per cent "wet."

And Clarence C. Hamlin, national committeeman for Colorado, a short man with white hair, a checkered suit and immense energy. Between bites of a cantaloupe in his hotel room, he recalled the wet developments of the last few days, John D. Rockefeller Jr.'s "wet" statement and the North Carolina election. He and the North Carolina delegation flew here today from St. Louis and displayed the package of cotton car-

8 ILLEGAL VOTES STARTS ACTION TO OUST TOWN HEAD

Ashland — (P) — Charging eight illegal ballots were cast at the election at which Howard Russell was elected chairman of the town of LaPointe, O. G. Anderson, former chairman, has filed ouster proceedings against Russell.

Thomas N. Uptegrove, clerk of the circuit court, said the case will probably come before Judge G. N. Risjord June 11. Anderson's complaint said there were 64 legal votes cast for him and 53 for his opponent but that the canvassing board accepted illegal ballots that brought

TAX REDUCTION IS PLEDGED BY CONSERVATIVES

Platform Assails Present "Orgy of Governmental Expenditures"

Madison—(AP)—The text of the platform adopted at the state conservative Republican convention last night follows:

"We, the qualified members of the state Republican conference, realize these are critical times in the government of our state.

"The present administration has indulged in an orgy of governmental expenditures such as has never been witnessed in Wisconsin. It has brought the people in two years closer to bankruptcy than at any other time during our history because of its destructive political practices.

"It has burdened the taxpayers with millions of dollars of additional taxes with no commensurate benefit to the people which is evidenced by the increased millions of delinquent taxes threatening the farms and homes of the people with confiscation.

"The present governor, autocratic in attitude, forced through a controlled legislature many new laws, creating scores of new political office holders.

"He urged the jeopardizing of our public trust funds by proposing to place them in one of their own banking institutions in an attempt to save it from closing.

"He has inflated bureaus and commissions, creating large increases in pay rolls, because he depends on a strong political machine supported by the taxpayers. He has permitted to be imported expensive theorists into the state at fancy salaries, disregarding the native ability of our citizens.

Overhead Crossings

"He spent millions of dollars under the guise of 'unemployment relief' for the construction of overhead railroad crossings—the most in glorious failure as a relief measure that the nation has witnessed. For this useless activity he taxed all classes of citizens for every mile that they operate an automobile. He collected millions from the taxpayers by a change in the law gave the railroads a portion of it out of the pockets of the thousands of thousands of dollars without interest.

"The governor and his group of career politicians have stopped our industrial development. They have thereby deprived our workers of jobs, our farmers of their markets, and our merchants of their customers.

"The present governor has published a statement which favors confiscation of property threatening primarily every citizen who owns a home, farm or products, thereby admitting his inability to meet a crisis with American principles.

"He has vetoed one bill permitting the semi-annual payment of taxes and refused to permit a similar bill to be brought before the special session of the legislature. The lack of consideration for the circumstances of citizens and home owners is causing widespread hardship.

Amateur Administration

"The citizens of this state have marshaled themselves to oppose an autocratic machine type of political government and they have lost their confidence in an amateur administration of state affairs. They resent the misrepresentation involved in the recommendation of relief measures which have caused heavy expenditures, have provided little in the way of employment or relief to those who need it.

"The framers of this state resent the constantly falling prices of their products and the utter lack of any aid on the part of the present administration, all contrary to the campaign pledges of the present government.

"As a representative body of citizens from all walks of life we believe that a common sense administration of public affairs requires a reduction of the cost of government, the abolition of useless commissions, lower taxes and respect for the constitutional rights of every citizen.

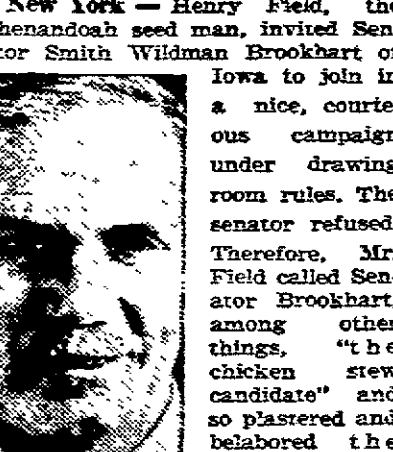

"We pledge ourselves, therefore, as follows:

"1.—The elimination of non-essential, duplicated or unnecessary bureaus, commissions and governmental activities.

"2.—The complete stopping of the overhead grade crossing program and diverting these funds to counties for essential construction purposes and the reduction of local taxes.

New York — Henry Field, the Shenandoah seed man, invited Senator Smith Wildman Brookhart of Iowa to join in a nice, courteous campaign under drawing room rules. The senator refused.

Therefore, Mr. Field called Senator Brookhart, among other things, "the chicken stew candidate" and so plastered and belabored the round statesman that the primary returns show Mr. Field leading in the primary vote, and the strong possibility that we shall dine with him in Washington than they used to be.

Mr. Field takes his bow in the wake of his children—Frank, Faith, Hope, Phillip, Josephine, Jessie, Mary, Ruth, Georgia, John Henry and Letty—a nice, old-fashioned Iowa family. He was born and grew up in Shenandoah, establishing his seed business in 1897. Several years ago he cast his seeds to the four winds with his own big radio station, KXNR. This made him a big fortune, and then the radio plant came in handy to eviscerate Senator Brookhart—after all bets were off about being nice about it.

The Valkyrie who thus rode the air and belittled the senator, also sold the people spotted pigs, hams, tea, coffee, shirts, overalls, pants, ties and chewing tobacco. Sporting up the $25,000 annual take of the five relatives of the senator on the federal payroll, he would translate this sum into terms of the above commodities, with a neat over-lapping of politics and economics. His customers—and as it now looks, his constituents—liked this, as contrasted to the senator's roaring denunciation of Wall Street. Senator Brookhart, in reply, called Mr. Field a "tool of the old gang." It all stacks up interestingly as a demonstration of the political efficacy of getting down to earth and close to home.

Samuel Insull, the white mustachioed old British sea lion, retires as the head of the vast Insull utilities, and James Simpson, the cautious Scotchman, never caught without a high hole card, replaces him.

Young James Simpson, Marshall Field's office boy, earning $10 a week, asked his boss for a raise. "I was getting half that when I was your age," said Mr. Field. "Perhaps you weren't worth any more," said the boy.

That was the nearest approach to a wisecrack ever credited to Mr. Simpson. But—so runs the tale—Mr. Field liked it and kept on promoting him, for 32 years, until he became president of the firm—a somewhat stereotyped department store idyll. Mr. Simpson got somewhat excited about American prosperity in 1927, but began to copper his bets soon thereafter. The Insull rehabilitation may be a job for a Scotchman. At any rate, he cashed in on his only wisecrack—a better record than that even of Mayor Walker.

Viscount Hailsham arrives in Dublin Tuesday, with J. H. Thomas, to take up with Eamon de Valera some British-Irish deadlock. At long range, the presence of the British secretary of war in this conference gives promise of something exciting.

In view of his known methods of negotiating. Here's what he said about Lord Beaverbrook:

"I am inclined to compare him to a mad dog, running along the streets, yapping and barking, and I would remind his lordship that the best way to treat a mad dog, if you can't muzzle him, is to shoot him."

The British newspapers tut-tutted the viscount, deploring an "incident of murder," but Lord Beaverbrook took no action and nothing happened.

Viscount Hailsham is a fire-eating old Tory, for many years in the sugar business in the West Indies. He is a lawyer and former lord chancellor of England.

BADGER G. O. P. GIVES BACKING TO PRESIDENT

Blanchard, Chairman, in Severe Attack on La-Follette Administration

Madison—(AP)—A rising vote of confidence in President Hoover and allegiance to the national administration was given by the state convention of conservative Wisconsin Republicans last night in the adoption of a campaign platform which contains every wrinkle of the complexion of anti-LaFollette political sentiment.

State Senator George W. Blanchard of Edgerton, who was elected permanent chairman of the convention had just delivered a roundly applauded address of barbed shafts directed at the present state administration when the platform committee, headed by George S. Meredith of Milwaukee, made its report.

A burst of applause greeted the reference to President Hoover and this led to a rising demonstration as these words from the platform echoed from the loudspeakers in the state university hall.

"We approve and appreciate the accomplishments of President Hoover and the wisdom and courage he had maintained in applying sane principles of government and economics in the face of unjustified criticism and we pledge our allegiance to the national Republican administration."

It was stated on reliable authority that spokesman for former Gov. Walter J. Kohler, despite his announcements that he does not want his name presented as the candidate to oppose Phil LaFollette, will declare that Mr. Kohler is willing to submit to a draft and it was understood that Harry Dahl of La Crosse, was prepared to nominate him.

Rules Liberalized

Rules adopted by the convention were liberalized so that the presentation of Mr. Kohler's name, in view of the reluctance apparent in his statements could be made without serious question of the validity of that action.

The order of business was changed so that nominations for United States senator came first with an interesting four cornered race on.

The convention platform was adopted unanimously and it contained no reference to prohibition. The platform committee passed up that subject entirely as having no practical place in the statement of party principles and no effort was made from the floor to insert the wet and dry issue, on which the party has formerly asserted itself.

"The platform pledges lower property taxes, elimination of non-essential state commissions and bureaus, stopping of the overhead grade crossing program and diversion of the funds to local construction purposes, semi-annual payment of taxes, relief to those in difficulty because of the depression, and opposition to the present administration's proposed amendments for public ownership of utilities."

There is also a plank on the matter of the closed City hall, that of Madison, but more succinctly stated in the preamble which said that Governor LaFollette "urged the jeopardizing of our public trust funds by proposing to place them in one of their own banking institutions, in an attempt to save it from closing."

Changes Necessary

"There are certain well defined economic issues facing the people of our state and it should be our purpose here to analyze as best we can the true situation confronting us, that we may be better able to effect such changes as may be necessary," Blanchard said.

"We have heard it repeatedly said that to solve our difficulties we must restore purchasing power. It is needless to add that any child will recognize the fact that if people had purchasing power in the depression would be at an end.

"Governor LaFollette has recently said that 'we can't restore confidence until people go back to work' and more recently he has said that 'government loans to the railroads will not bring better times. The railroads do not need loans but traffic.' This last statement, of course, is contrary to his thought when he proposed the financing of the railroads in the construction of summer overboard crossings under the guise of 'unemployment relief.'"

Mr. Blanchard stated that Governor LaFollette and his followers in the state legislature have said that the way to restore purchasing power is by more taxes.

Lower Taxes Required

"We believe that the sure road to a cure of the present financial difficulties is to lower taxes that should be more than an idle gesture," he said. "It means that governments are no different from individuals and business enterprises. Government expenditures cannot continue upwards and the taxpayers' income downwards; and though you label your program 'the redistribution of wealth' you nevertheless are confronted with the fact the power to tax lodged in the hands of irresponsible representatives of the people carries with it the power to destroy. Their answer is more taxes. Our answer is less taxes."

Mr. Blanchard closed with a plea for protection from the "tax waster, tax collector and tax experts" and urged that "this is the time to forget all of our differences and resolve that we are here as representatives of principles and not persons and representatives of measures and not men."

The Republican regulars and their organization elected an executive committee composed of two members from each of the 10 congressional districts. They are: First, William Dougherty, Janesville, and Mrs. C. H. Gebhart, Kenosha; second, Randolph Conners, Madison, and Mrs. George Shields, Mazomanie; third, Ben Marcus, Muskego, and Mrs. L. D. Adkins, LaCrosse; fourth, William L. Peplow, and Mrs. F. J. Ruckus, Milwaukee; fifth, Julius Hall, and Mrs. C. J. Orjen, Milwaukee; sixth, W. J. Campbell, Oshkosh, and Mrs. Leon Pallister, Fond du Lac; seventh, John Jardine, Waukegan, and Mrs. Estelle Morrison, Waukegan; eighth, Winifred Johnson, Kiel, and Mrs. V. A. Lundgren, Marinette; ninth, Victor M. Stoltz, Eau Claire, and R. W. Bowen, Augusta; tenth, Peter Skamser and Mrs. Agnes Charbonneau, Superior.

The platform committee was composed of Stephen Bolles, Janesville; T. H. Sanderson, Portage; Levi Eberhart, Richland Center; George Meredith, Milwaukee; William Kim-sella, Milwaukee; Judge H. F. Arps, Calumet-co; M. S. Eberlein, Shawano; William H. Zuelke, Appleton; F. L. Lampson, Cumberland, and L. S. Shauger, Price-co.

Rochester, N. Y. — Deputy Sheriff George Emmerich thought he saw ghosts. Two eerie figures were swinging through space in the darkness back of a farmhouse. "Stop or I'll shoot," he roared. A frightened lad and lassie climbed out of a garden swing. Emmerich glanced at the moon, sighed and put up his gun.

Nearly 4,500 miles of national highway in Italy were improved last year.

Claflin Describes Best Vacation Spots In North

BY BERT CLAFLIN

The migration of tourists to the big north country will soon start in earnest. Already, I am getting on an average 30 letters daily from people who are going some where for their summer vacations. They ask that I not only point out the resorts where they will be treated right, but also where they will be in fairly close proximity to good fishing waters.

I am writing this article with the hopes that it may prove of value and interest to such vacationists. First, let me suggest that you procure a map of the Land of Lakes region. When you have that trace along up 51 or 47 to the country north of Woodruff, and east of that town to what is termed "the lake region" by the west of the latter town in Vilas co. Highways 70 and 155 are the main arteries of traffic through this grand region; it comprises the Eagle River, Sawyer and Star Lake districts.

There are 84 resorts that cater to the public, 3 Boys and Girls' camps and several golf courses. That sounds like a large number of resorts and it is, yet the country is so large and the lakes so numerous that you need fear no crowding whatever. There are miles and miles of quiet "woodsy" spots, beautiful tranquil lakes, old Indian trails and shady drives on which you may travel and seldom meet other human beings.

Best Fishing Ground

How about the fishing? Let me at random mention a few of the lakes in the region I am describing. There are Lost Lake, Ballard, Star, Laura, St. Germain, Alma, Finley, Moon, Bragana, Pound, Plum, Muskellunge, Pickeral and many others having resorts on them and plenty of game fish in their depths.

You can match your wits with the tiger musky; you can catch all the golden walleyes you want; after June 29 you will be free to visit the weed beds for the gummy bass; and if you like the trout streams of the adirondacks they are there and they will yield you brook trout according to your ability as an angler.

Most of the lake to dream of getting in away "back of beyond," where few others reach, but so often its flaunted treasures prove to be myths after a place of that kind is attained. The lake region I have described is an ideal vacation land. It has wonderful roads; it has the fish; it has the solitude for those who prefer it; everything to call for a determination to return next season. What more can be desired?

INVESTIGATE FIRE TRAGEDY IN OHIO
Eight Tennants Still Missing More Than 24 Hours After Explosion

Cleveland—(AP)—Firemen were still searching for bodies today in the blackened tons of steel and brick that remained of the Ellington apartments, destroyed by fire with an unknown loss of life.

A fifth body, badly charred, was recovered early today, but eight tenants were still unlocated more than 24 hours after the terrific explosion an cure which gutted the building early yesterday.

The latest known victim was tentatively identified as Mrs. Clara Withers, about 65, a resident.

Authorities said the list of missing might be incomplete, since there was no way of knowing how many visitors were in the building, a six-story structure located in the central downtown area. City detectives were attempting to trace any of the missing who might not have been at home.

Fire Chief James E. Granger and Safety Director Frank J. Merrick announced they were investigating the disaster on the theory it was of incendiary origin.

Ray L. Turk, 39, part owner of the American Beauty and Barber Supply company, where Granger and Merrick said the explosion evidently occurred, voluntarily gave a statement in which he said there was a small quantity of alcohol in the basement used by his firm in making hair tonics.

In a glass factory fire at Halle, Germany, 1,000,000 bottles were destroyed.

50 CHILDREN ENROLL IN BIBLE SCHOOL

Fifty children are enrolled in the Vacation Bible school of the Congregational church, which opened at the church Monday morning. Classes will be held from 2 o'clock to 11:30 every morning for 19 days.

A special feature of the school is the work being done in the junior department, where a Junior League of Nations has been formed, with each pupil representing a different country. A council of eight pupils of the department plan the daily activities of the junior section.

You Can't Marry

by Julia Cleft-Addams

SYNOPSIS: Gratton Matching suspects that Jennie Revell is not married to Eddie Townsend, but that her cousin Georgie is, the girls feel. But while the deception lasts, Georgie can keep her position. Jennie's false position as Eddie's supposed wife has caused Garth Avenue, Matching's nephew, to misjudge her.

Chapter 34
THE STORY OF A BRIDE

"O H, are they for me?" said Jennie. Gratton Matching nodded. All of them? All these heavenly flowers?"

"Every one. Here, pick 'em up. The fools sent me red roses at first, but I sent 'em back. White roses for little Miss Jennie, eh? Pity there aren't blue roses, to match your gown. Blue and white, you're all blue and white today. And last night you were all silver."

Jennie sat again beside the huge bed, but now it was afternoon and she could see her strange old friend more clearly.

"I told you I'd have something you like waiting for you next time you came," he rapped, with an air of most childish satisfaction in the air of flowers he had given her. "And I was right, wasn't I? No chocolates and ices and fans for you, little Miss Jennie? flowers every time. And I knew you'd come too. I knew you'd come."

"I began to be afraid this was the wrong time of day, though. I had such trouble in inducing your servants to let me see you."

The rasping voice rose to a squeal. "I'll discuss the lot of them, the idle, incompetent hounds! I'll—no, wait, maybe they didn't get my message that you were to be admitted at any time, at once! It was that valet fellow I gave it to, and then later on in the night I sent him packing. You said you didn't trust him. Remember?"

"But you didn't dismiss him because of anything I said?"

"I'd had my suspicions of him for a long time. It was he, I don't doubt, who sold the Mexican estimates to the Gortenz group. You don't understand that, eh? Never mind, your cousin will, no doubt. You can tell her if you like."

Jennie pondered. All she could gather was that there was something about estimates that he wanted Georgie to know and that he was shirking the job of telling her himself.

She shook her head at him, dimpling as he was so absurdly like grandfather!

"If there's dirty work to be done at the cross-roads," she declared, "you should do it yourself."

"You pretty, pert thing! There's spirit in you!"

"I'm Georgie's cousin" she reminded him. It had struck her before as inhuman the way he never mentioned Georgie.

"Yes, stuff of a kind in her, too," he agreed. He gave his familiar wriggle and lay flat. He looked more than ever like a long gray slate-pencil. "She showed it all right the other night, didn't she? You know about that, of course, the little trap we laid for her, my young nephew and I?"

"No, I don't, Mr. Matching, tell me."

"Nothing very important. Just a little trap we laid to see if she would sell my nephew a business secret. And she wouldn't."

"You mean," stammered Jennie, that before she knew he was your nephew he tried to bribe her? It— it was a business matter? . . . Oh, why didn't I think of that explanation for myself?"

"You modern young people," grumbled the ugly old voice from the bed, "you never think of anything for yourselves that I can discover! You have to be told the simplest truths—and then you don't believe them." He rapped her hand smartly to recall her attention. "You don't believe what I have just said, I suppose, do you now?"

"Jennie believed him. It was already difficult to understand how she had come to believe anything else. She must have what Ryder Vale had called an "inferiority complex." A profound conviction that no one who knew Georgie could ever possibly have eyes for Georgie's cousin. Even now—

"When your nephew spoke to you about me—he did speak to you about me?—are you sure that he meant me, really? You see, it's so much more likely that he would be—would be interested in Georgie."

"Much, much more likely!" jeered Gratton Matching. He rapped her hand again. "Now, you'll have to run away, I've got a lot of people coming to see me. Two doctors and a lawyer—"

The blank eyes that were yet so bright searched hers, but she could not read their riddle. "You'll come again tomorrow and there'll be blue flowers for you."

"No, tomorrow it's my turn to give you something," insisted Jennie. She had in her mind's eye the firm of sticky sweets in Mrs. Eager's window; probably he would like those round brown ones with blue and red bands. She rose, gathering up her flowers, and smiled at him.

He did not smile back. He just lay and raked her face with those bright, blank eyes. Then, as her hand was on the door, he suddenly ground out:

"You make it up with that young blockhead of mine and be quick about it. Who's this fellow he's got around with, eh? I've told him I won't have it—I've no use for a woman with green finger-nails—and then there's this nonsense of yours about marrying my pilot. Muddle and waste, all of it."

"You mean Brigitta Deering?"

But he would not say clearly what he meant.

"You haven't wished me good-by," he grumbled.

She went back to the bed, bent over him and kissed him on the forehead. When she was again at the door, she looked back and saw that his eyes were closed.

She made her own way out of the house, glancing as she went at the closed doors that lined the corridors. Behind one of them Georgie sometimes worked. Jennie had only once seen Georgie at work, but she had never forgotten her impression of competent, balanced, tireless keenness. Miss Revell, in her dark, tailored dress, groomed to perfection, was a different being from the Georgie who roared in extravagance, grabbing every last gleam of gaiety from life. And since one couldn't agree with that riotous Georgie, couldn't beat down her selfishness, why not appeal to Miss Revell?

At worst she would speak into a house telephone and one would be firmly shown the door. . . .

(Copyright, Julia Cleft-Addams)

George's happiness, or her own—Jennie must choose tomorrow.

LOVED THEIR HOME

Houston, Tex.—Someone let the pigeon house door open at 150 of the birds belonging to City Trust Attorney Louis Dunn flew out. They made no effort to escape. A strong wind blew up, however, and drove the birds away despite their struggles. Dunn thought he had lost his pigeons, but the following morning they were back in their home, all bedraggled and weary. Dunn explained that they had walked home after giving up flying against the strong wind. Their feet were nearly raw.

Billy Sixty, Roger Rodee Play At Butte des Morts Sunday

MEET M'GOWAN, KEN DICKINSON IN EXHIBITION

Rodee State Amateur Champ; No Admission Charge for Match

FOX river valley golf fans will have a treat in store for them when Billy Sixty, prominent Wisconsin golf writer of the Milwaukee Journal sports staff, and Roger Rodee, Wisconsin state golf champion, play an exhibition match on the Butte des Morts Country club course Sunday, June 12, against Ralph McGowan and Ken Dickinson of the home club.

The McGowan team constitutes an interesting combination. Sixty, a veteran campaigner, always makes a strong bid for the cup in any tournament he enters, and several times has been runner-up in the state championship. Rodee crashed into the Wisconsin golf firmament last year when, with no tournament experience, he made a surprising march to the state amateur crown.

Both Sixty and Rodee have been hitting the ball well and playing par golf in early season practices. Their present form gives the promise that both will be high up in the running for this year's state championship, and it isn't too wild a prediction to say that one of them might garner the laurels.

The Butte des Morts match, on June 12, will be the second of a series which Sixty and Rodee are playing on Wisconsin links to stimulate interest in the game. Their opponents at the Butte des Morts Country club, Ralph McGowan, club champion, and Ken Dickinson, former state champion, are expert birdie snipers, high up in the amateur ranks.

There is no charge of any kind in connection with these matches and the public is invited to see them.

NEW MILE RECORD EXPECTED SATURDAY

Henry Brocksmith, Indiana Star, Has Turned In 4:12.5 Mark

Chicago—(AP)—A new record for the one-mile run confidently expected, but which failed to materialize in the first three renewals of the national collegiate track and field championships, seems certain for Saturday.

The record of 4:17.6 was set by Ray Conger of Iowa State college, in 1927, and was equaled the next year by Rudy Eizer of the University of Washington. In spite of better performances by a half dozen or more runners in other meets during the next three years, they failed to approach it in the national games.

This year Henry Brocksmith, Indiana's greyhound, with an indoor record of 4:12.5, and Glen Cunningham of the University of Kansas, who won the Big Six title with 4:14.3, and came right back with a 4:13.5 half-mile, are entered along with 4:18. Brocksmith will be favored, but may shift to the two-mile.

George Saling of Iowa, and Ohio State's crack hurdler, Jack Keller, will renew their feud, and Bert Nelson of Butler, and Harold Spencer of Geneva college, Beaver Falls, Pa., a pair of Olympic aspirants in the high jump, will get together for the first time. Nelson last week leaped 6 feet, 7 inches in the central intercollegiate championships, while Spencer this season has cleared 6 feet, 3 1/2 inches.

Ralph McCalfee, Marquette University Negro, and Don Bennett of Ohio State, will have an opportunity to decide the sprinting championship of the Midwest at least, and there are enough 13 foot, 6 inch pole vaulters entered to make it an all day affair.

Trials will be held Friday and the finals on Saturday.

THEATRES AND BEARS PLAY FOR O. B. TITLE

Warner Theatres and the Fourth ward Bears will play the first of a three game series to decide the Oldtimer Boy league softball championship at First ward diamond at 8:30 Thursday evening. The Theatre won the right to play the Bears in title competition when they beat the Fourth ward Outcasts the other evening, 19 and 5 at First ward.

Batteries for the Theatre Thursday night will be Peirce and Rubin for the Bears, Mitchell and Marler.

A second game of the series probably will be played next week on a Fourth ward diamond.

BOXING COMMISSION CLEARS DAVIE MAIER

Milwaukee—(AP)—Davie Maier, who said he quit in the sixth round of his recent fight with Billy Jones because he had a stomach ache, yesterday was cleared by the boxing commission.

The commission investigated after there were reports that Maier wasn't really sick, but just too tired to fight. Maier presented medical testimony containing so many Latin names that the committee decided he must have been sick.

MURPHY'S CORNERS WINS FROM SHIOCTON

The Murphy's Corners baseball team of the Tri-County league won a hotly contested game from Shiocton Sunday. The score was 3 and 1, the game a pitchers' battle between Murphy and Miller. The former had a slight edge in the final tabulations.

Next Sunday Larsen journeys to Murphy's Corners for a league game.

Valley League Gossip

SHAWANO has still to break into the win column but Jerry Kral's Indians are looking better at every start and it won't be long before they break the string of defeats. Shawano dropped a tough one to Kaukauna last Sunday, 4-3.

Zemelski continued his surprising pitching performance for Kimberly. Although the big right hander didn't retire a Bayite via the strike out route, he kept the seven hits well scattered and won easily by a 4 to 2 score.

Not the Wisconsin Rapids' slasher, was master of the situation at all times in the combat against Appleton. Not one of the Collegians put foot on third base and the Redmen galloped away with an 11 to 0 victory.

Lefty Ruben, who took a trip south this spring with the Milwaukee Brewers, will spend the rest of the summer at Shawano as he has signed a contract to pitch. Ruben did well in his first start, allowing the Kaws but six hits.

Manager Joe Muench of Kimberly protested vigorously about an alleged balk by Petekia, the Green Bay hurler. The umpires turned a deaf ear to Muench's wails and the Parkmaker field general pawed the dirt plenty.

Johnny Kuenn, veteran Wisconsin Rapids infielder, is biffing the ball harder than ever before in his diamond career. So far this season, the shortstop has collected eleven hits in 20 trips to the plate for an average of .550.

According to reports filed with Treasurer John Coppes, gate receipts in the Valley league have been pretty close to normal. Green Bay is setting the pace in total attendance. Evidently it must pay to have a winning ball club.

Kaukauna staged its flag raising celebration with big league frills. Mayor B. W. Fargo, President C. O. Baetz of the Valley league and John Law, dean of the baseball enthusiasts in the Electric City, were on the speakers' list.

This Hackbarth-Muench combination in the Kimberly infield is as good as a second base-shortstop duo as there is in the Valley league. Hackbarth is a demon with the stick while Muench performs superbly on the defense.

Shorty Zuidmuller, Bay first sacker, is looking for a four leaf clover. In the game against Kimberly, Sunday, Zuidmuller cracked three line drives, ticked for hits but each blow went into the well via sensational one hand stabs.

Bud Reed, Shawano infielder, gave a great exhibition around the short field at Kaukauna. The Indian shortstop roamed far and wide and some of his stunts bordered on the sensational. Reed is the property of the Washington Senators.

Mary Lamers, Kaukauna manager, is looking for re-enforcements within the next ten days as Ray Smith and Esler are expected home from the east. Both these players were members of the 1931 Electric City pennant winning combination.

Leo Murphy, the Appleton manager, is hitting above the .300 mark and catching his usual snappy game behind the log. Murphy is having a lot of worries as team leader but he has got his team clicking at better than normal clip.

Manager Rosenberg of Green Bay is seeking some way out of his team's batting slump. The Sox have been way under par with the stick. Aside from Petekia and Zuidmuller, Green Bay has not any other swatters in the select circle.

McLain is singing the apple frequently for Wisconsin Rapids. In other seasons, "Mac" hasn't set the world afire with the stick but the whistling backstop generally hits safely when there are base runners on the paths.

Waukechon, a Keshena youngster, is filling the bill nicely in left field for Shawano. The former St. Norbert's athlete plays the sun field and has given indications of being dangerous up there swinging his war club.

Unassisted double plays are quite a tad in the Valley league this season. Joe Muench, Buddy O'Doul, and Red Smith have been credited with solo twin killings in two games of games. This brand of fielding makes a hit with the fans.

Valley league managers are standing pat against player walkouts. Several of the clubs have faced so-called "strikes" regarding wages but it was decided to let the players know that the league is still holding control.

The feature contest this week end brings together Kaukauna and Kimberly on the Parkmakers' diamond. Green Bay is slated to make its initial appearance of the season at Wisconsin Rapids while Appleton is to perform in Shawano.

Southpaw golfers will organize club

Cleveland—(AP)—The boys who dig their divots from the port side may become a bit exclusive.

A meeting will be held at the Shaker Heights golf club Monday to organize the National Left-Handers Golf association and plan for a national southpaw tournament this fall.

George Herman Ruth, who at least can swear baseballs from the left side, is understood to be slated for the presidency. Others in the movement include prominent business men and southpaw golfers.

Dale Wins 1 and 0 in 10 Inning Tilt

Dale defeated Greenville, in a Tri-County league game last Sunday, by a score of 1 to 0 in 10 innings. The winning run resulted from a double by Oelke, Dale first sacker, and a sharp single to right by Vanderzanden, the pitcher.

Vanderzanden allowed only three hits and got eight strikeouts; while Thorson allowed five hits and got four strikeouts. Dale has played great defensive ball in the last 23 innings allowing only one score to be scored against it.

Next Sunday Dale meets Greenville at the latter's diamond.

A. P. B. A. RECOGNIZES GAR WOOD'S RECORD

New York—(AP)—The American Power Boat association has decided to recognize Gar Wood's speedboat mark of 111.712 miles per hour as an American record after all and the so-called "Battle of the Alphabet" seems almost over.

Wood made his record run in Florida under the auspices of the Yachtmen's Association of America and although the mark was accepted by the International Motor Yatching Union, the A. P. B. A. declined to recognize it as an American standard.

For months the A. P. B. A. and the Y. A. A. have been at odds over the questions affecting international motorboat racing and the A. P. B. A.'s action in declining to recognize Wood's performance deepened the breach.

Now the A. P. B. A. has reconsidered. Wood having explained his failure to apply for A. P. B. A. sanction as due to the fact that he had merely forgotten to ask for it.

JUNIORS, LEGION PLAY HARD BALL

Youngsters Challenge Veterans to Game at Brandt Park Friday

Appleton Junior baseball team sponsored by Oney Johnson post of the American legion has challenged the veterans to produce a ball club and come out and try to beat them at 5 o'clock Friday evening. Brandt park diamond will be the scene of the battle.

All veterans who played, and think they can play hard ball have been invited out to stop the youngsters. The Juniors have asked for plenty cannon fodder believing the old boys won't last long and they'll need plenty of reinforcements.

The admission price, according to H. W. Miller who is sponsoring the game, should be $5. However, it will be free, Mr. Miller said.

MILLS INCREASE THEIR LEAD IN A. A. FLAG RACE

Bump Louisville Twice; Milwaukee Defeated by Columbus 7 to 6

BY WILLIAM WEEKES (Associated Press Sports Writer)

CHICAGO—(AP)—Two of the American association's three playing managers, Emmett McCann of Indianapolis, and Frank O'Rourke of Milwaukee, are getting along well in combining pilot and active duties, but things are not going so well for Bob Falk and the Toledo Mud Hens.

McCann's Indians today were in second place, with Milwaukee two games behind, while Toledo, although showing improvement, was in the sixth hole. McCann turned the first base duties over to Ernie Wiegand for a while but is back to some hitting, while O'Rourke has occasionally started games, and rather ineffectively pinch batted. Falk has held down an outfield job almost regularly since early in the season.

Mills Increase Lead
Minneapolis increased its lead over Indianapolis by another half game yesterday, taking Louisville twice, 6 to 4, and 7 to 3 in ten innings, while the Indians were using up ten innings defeating St. Paul, 7 to 6. Columbus defeated Milwaukee, 6 to 5, and Toledo trimmed Kansas City, 7 to 6.

Rosy Ryan and Guy Wilkinson were given plenty of work in the Miller-Colonel set, each finishing each game after outpunching had failed. Phil Weiner and Rube Benton gave up in favor of the right handers in the first game and Archie McKain and Jess Petty failed to lead in the second. Ryan worked eight innings and gained credit for the second victory.

Minneapolis plastered three St. Paul pitchers for 20 hits, but just managed to squeeze out an overtime victory. The loss of Jimmy Reese from the St. Paul infield apparently has not damaged the doubleplay system for the Saints made two in keeping the Indians from winning earlier. Doug Taitt's fourth hit of the day gave Indianapolis the winning run.

Columbus got to Garland Braxton for an early lead and made it last to stall off rallies by Milwaukee. Earl Caldwell held the Red Birds to one hit in the last four innings, while Pete Fowler and Al Grabowski had to help Ken Ash.

Ralph Winegarner pitched and batted Toledo to victory over the Blues. He relieved Moore with none out in the third and gave three hits the rest of the way, and his home run in the fifth was the winning run.

Kansas City has joined the night based group in the league, having joined Indianapolis, Louisville and Columbus in the venture.

Armour, Sarazen Will Team In Golf Exhibits

BY FRANCIS J. POWERS Copyright 1932

CHICAGO—(CFA)—One hears that Tommy Armour and Gene Sarazen, the one defending and the other challenging for the British open championship, at Sandwich, will partner in an exhibition tour immediately after the opening of the United States open championship at Fresh Meadows late this month.

That combination will break up the partnership of Sarazen and Tommy Farrell, which was one of the longest in golf.

Armour too is a favorite with the galleries and during the past five seasons few professionals have a better computing record, in that sense the Black Sox has won both the United States and British open championships. He is a tremendous gallery attraction and is playing quite the most consistent golf of any professional.

Armour too is a favorite with the galleries and during the past five seasons few professionals have a better computing record, in that sense the Black Sox has won both the United States and British open championships. He is a tremendous gallery attraction and is playing quite the most consistent golf of any professional.

There seems to be a revival in interest in exhibition golf both in the United States and Great Britain. Bob Harlow who is managing Haggen, Jose Jurado the Argentinean and Tom Miyamoto the Japanese star reports more booking for his stars than he had when finding fairways for the Hag and Joe Kirkwood a half dozen years ago. Of course the pro stars no longer are demanding appearance guarantees but are willing to play for the gate.

Jurado is now enroute to the United States from the Argentine and is due to arrive in New York this week. This guarantees his appearance in the United States open, June 23, and provides a slight international flavor to the battle, since none of the British stars are expected to be present. Miyamoto is resting in preparation for the open, having passed up the British championship, and the galleries at Fresh Meadows will see a fine shot maker in the little man from Nippon.

WEEK'S RESULTS
Outagamie-Kloehn 5, Appleton Machines 4.
Outagamie-Kloehn 5, Phones 4.

CORING one run in each of five innings, the Outagamie-Kloehn softball aggregation in the American league won its second straight game last night. The score again was 5 and 4 and the Telephone company the loser. Monday night the O. K. kicked the dope bucket all over the plant to beat the Appleton Machines, 5 and 4.

The Telephone scored a run to open the game and the O. K. tied the count when they came to bat. In the fourth inning the boys repeated the act and the Phones pulled in front with one run in the sixth. Another run in the seventh gave them a 4 and 2 lead which the O. K. cut to 4 and 3 with a run in the last of the seventh.

The last of the eighth saw the O. K. tie the score at 4 and all then came the ninth. Koepsel led off with a clean single, was advanced on second on Eggert's sacrifice, but that became an error when Downs tossed the ball low to first. The two runners then advanced a base on a wild pitch.

On the next toss Staedt hit a line drive to right field and when Wiggins made a sensational shoe string catch he doubled Koepsel off third. With two out and Eggert on second, the later stole third and Hobbins tossed the ball into left field and the runner scored.

Hobbsback was on the mound for the Phones and whiffed eight batters, gave no walks and allowed eight hits. Van Wyck toiled for the O. K. and whiffed two, walked four and gave five hits.

CITY TO BUY CHEAPER COAL FOR POOR AID

Agreement Reached With Dealers, Alderman Reports to Council

Kaukauna — An agreement has been made between the poor committee and the city coal dealers to purchase coal by the carload for city poor, Alderman William Gillen, head of the poor committee, reported to the common council Tuesday evening. This agreement was made in order to purchase the coal needed for poor at a smaller cost.

According to Alderman Gillen, the city will save a dollar on each ton of coal purchased in this way. The coal will be delivered to the poor with city trucks. The coal dealers will sell the coal to the city at $1.25 plus the cost price per ton. The business will be divided equally between the six coal dealers operating in the city. The city should save at least $200 by this method, Alderman Gillen said.

The poor committee also met with the grocers to discuss buying flour in large lots. However, it was found that the small margin of profit on this commodity would make this impractical. Similar plans for buying flour in other cities have been tried without success, it was stated.

A final financial report on the Mid-Winter fair was submitted by a committee of the Kaukauna Ad- vancement association. The report showed a deficit of $32.17. This was caused by poor evening attendance, according to the committee. The council had underwritten the fair, so will pay the deficit.

Discuss Milk Quality

Alderman George L. Smith brought up the matter of milk dealers using bottles with their names on them. At the present time some of the dealers only have their names on the caps. There is no provision in the city milk ordinance making it necessary for the dealers to have their bottles labeled, Alderman Smith pointed out, and there is no certain method of finding out which dealers are selling milk that might contain germs. City Attorney Joseph LeFevre explained that the state law contains a clause covering this phase and it would be unnecessary for the city to insert it into the local ordinance.

City officials and councilmen were urged by Alderman Walker Cooper to attend the meeting of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities June 23 at Menasha. Election of a president will take place.

The council was invited to take part in the flag day celebration on Tuesday, June 14. The celebration will be sponsored in this city by the Kaukauna American Legion and the Elks. There will be a parade at 7 o'clock in the evening. This will be followed by a program. R. H. McCarty is the general chairman of the affair.

Alderman Smith inquired about the progress being made on the Tenth-st sewer project. Attorney LeFevre replied that plans have been sent to the state board of health, and the city is waiting for the approval of the plans.

Sewers, Mains Sought

An application signed by 12 persons was presented to the council to accept Jackson-st as a city street with the adjoining land to be known as the J. Black, Kaukauna-Little Chute plat. The petition also requested sewers and water mains to extend from the corner of Jefferson and Draper-sts to Jackson-st and from Jackson-st to Wisconsin-ave. The petition was referred to the board of public works.

Alderman Cooper submitted a report on the work done by the Ray McCarty Construction company on Crooks-ave. From May 2 to 16 an average of 16 men per day were employed. From May 17 to 23 an average of 40 men per day were given work. All men employed were local residents, Alderman Cooper pointed this fact out as an advantage of having a local contractor in charge of the work.

Attention of the aldermen was called to the electric rate hearing to be held here Thursday by the Wisconsin Public Service commission. The hearing will begin at 10 o'clock in the morning. The meeting is being held because of petitions protesting against rates charged by the Kaukauna Electrical department.

E. R. Landreman, member of the park board, appeared before the council and spoke of improving a piece of land adjacent to Spring-st for a park. The city should ask permission of the owners, Mississippi Canal Co., to use the land as a park. Only a small amount of money would be needed to clean the place and to fix the sulphur spring in order to put it into good condition. The city will seek this permission.

PAINTERS START WORK ON NEW LAWE-ST BRIDGE

Kaukauna — Workmen of the C. R. Meyer Construction Co. Tuesday started to apply the first coat of gray paint to the railings on the Lawe-st bridge. The bridge has received one coat of red lead and will have received two coats of the gray color when completed. The railing along the small bridge over the tail race intersecting Main-ave also will be painted gray.

PIGEON CLUB PLANS FOR ITS NEXT RACE

Kaukauna — Kaukauna Pigeon club met at the home of E. Reuter on Division-st Tuesday evening. Plans for the next race were discussed. The next race will be held Sunday from Preston, Minn., a distance of 200 miles. Timers were also checked, according to Ervin Haessly, race secretary.

TEST FIRE HYDRANTS

Kaukauna — Firemen Tuesday tested fire hydrants in the business district. The hydrants also received a pressure test.

Named in Death

A coroner's jury at San Francisco recommended arrest of Public Defender Frank J. Egan, shown above, and his convict ex-chauffeur, Verne Doran, in connection with the alleged murder of Mrs. Jessie Scott Hughes, Egan's lifelong friend and client. Police say an auto was used to crush Mrs. Hughes to death in her garage and to carry her body to an outlying street to make her appear the victim of a hit-run driver. Police named Egan as beneficiary of Mrs. Hughes' life insurance policies and principal heir to her estate.

ADVISES FARMERS TO PLANT SUDAN GRASS

Pasture Problem Will Be Partly Solved Later, Sell Claims

If rye pasture or other meadow pastures are beginning to look short at this time there may be an advantage in working up a part of it and seeding it to sudan grass for later pasture, according to Gus Sell, county agent.

When meadow pastures get thin, and there is a question whether there will be enough grazing to carry the cattle, G. B. Mortimer, of the College of Agriculture, is suggesting that if sudan grass be seeded at the rate of thirty pounds or more to the acre that pasture can be provided for three cows on every two acres.

In seeding sudan grass, it is being found an advantage to thoroughly prepare the seed bed, compacting it before seeding if it has been spring plowed and, if the soil is dry, to compact again after seeding. Sudan grass should not be seeded more than an inch or at most, an inch and a half deep. Pasturing should not be begun until the growth has reached 15 or 20 inches.

The season is now beginning when it is safe to seed sudan grass for it requires much the same conditions for growth as does corn. Mortimer suggests that any time from the last week in May until the middle of June is a suitable time for seeding. Old weak meadows that will, at best, produce but little during the remainder of the season can, if broken up and seeded to sudan grass now, be ready for pasturing about July 10 to 15, at a time when other pastures are usually short.

The regular seeder box, when adjusted to seed between 30 and 35 pounds of sudan grass to the acre, is usually found to give better results than a grass seeder attachment.

SOCIAL ITEMS

Kaukauna — There will be a meeting of Oddie Chapter No. 134, Order of Eastern Star, at 8 o'clock Friday evening in Masonic hall. Election of an associate matron will take place, and a social will be followed by refreshments.

A meeting of the Ladies' Aid society of First Congregational church has been postponed from Wednesday afternoon to 2:30 Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ray Nagel on Crooks-ave.

Trinity Dramatic club of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran church met in the Lutheran school house Tuesday evening. A report of the play given Sunday evening by the club at Wayside was submitted. Reports of the success of the club softball team were also heard.

Young Ladies' Sodality of Holy Cross church met in the school house Tuesday evening. Rev. A. Garthaus presided.

Mrs. Arthur Godfrey entertained at her home here Tuesday afternoon. Cards were played and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Mark Nagan and Mrs. Archie Crevier.

St. Anne's Court No. 226, Catholic Order of Foresters, met in their club rooms on Wisconsin-ave Tuesday evening. Regular business was discussed.

EAGLES TAKE FIRST SOFTBALL VICTORY

Kaukauna — After losing 10 consecutive games the Eagles defeated Mereness Transfers 14 to 9 in a city softball league game on the Park school diamond Tuesday evening. It was the first victory scored by the Eagles in league play, although they lost several decisions by margins of one point. Van's Bufiles took an 8 to 6 beating from Weyenberg's Meats. Wednesday evening Bayor-son's Butchers engaged Van's Bufiles at Park school, and Kalupa Bakers met the Service Laundries at the playgrounds.

SCHEDULE SERIES OF MEETINGS ON POTATO SHIPPING

Compulsory Inspection, New Branding and Grading to Be Discussed

Madison — Compulsory inspection of truck load shipments of potatoes, new branding and new grade regulations are the major factors which will be brought up for consideration at a series of eight official hearings called by the department of agriculture and markets for the third week in June.

As a result of the hearings final decisions will eventually be made for handling the 1932 crop of potatoes.

The first question according to the announcement call for a discussion regarding discontinuing the use of tags on containers. Instead of tags, it is suggested that all potato containers be branded or stenciled to show grade, and net weight of the potatoes and the name and address of the packer.

A second question deals with the establishment of a combination grade which would consist of 75 per cent of U. S. Grade No. 1 and 25 per cent of U. S. Grade No. 2 potatoes. The tolerance of 6 per cent of grade defects would be restricted to the No. 2 potatoes, no tolerance for grade defects to be allowed in the 75 per cent of U. S. No. 1. A similar grade has been established in Colorado, Idaho, Missouri, and Kansas and a special name would be used to designate the Wisconsin grade.

Compulsory inspection of truck loads as well as car lot shipments of potatoes is announced as the third problem to be discussed, but other matters concerning the Wisconsin potato industry will also be considered at the hearings.

The commissioners of the department of agriculture and markets have requested all growers and shippers of potatoes to attend the hearings in order to obtain a representative expression of opinion. Dates announced are:

June 13, 1932—Court House, Wausau, at 1:30 in the afternoon, and courthouse, Stevens Point, at 7:30 in the evening; June 14, Community room, Langlade National bank, Antigo, at 1:30, and County Agent's office, court house, Rhinelander, at 7:30; June 15, County Agent's office, Normal School building, Phillips, at 1:30; June 16, Normal School building, Rice Lake, at 1:30; June 17, Germania hall, Reedsburg, at 2 o'clock; June 22, courthouse, Racine, at 1:30.

"GREEN CHEESE" NEW PRODUCT ON MARKET

Manitowoc Producer Adds Alfalfa Leaves to Color Cheddar

Madison—If the moon is ever made out of green cheese, a Manitowoc cheesemaker will have the honor of furnishing a supply.

In response to a request from Boston for a new kind of fancy cheese, the Manitowoc cheesemaker proceeded to make up a batch of fine cheddar into which he introduced a sprinkling of fresh alfalfa leaves. The result is a green and gold combination which combines the flavor of ripe cheddar touched with a dash of alfalfa and given a further zest by the addition of sage seasoning.

The cheeses are made in small 12 to 14 pound cheddar sizes and will be sold as "sage cheese" on the Eastern market according to Commissioner Charles L. Hill of the state department of agriculture and markets. Made for probably the first time in history in June, 1931, Mr. Hill says the alfalfa-sage-cheese passed through a year's storage in a curing warehouse in perfect condition and with the alfalfa leaves retaining their brilliant green coloration.

As a result of exhibiting a sample in the east, an initial order for five carloads was obtained from Boston with a prospect of more orders in the future from other Eastern cities.

LEGION DISCUSSES CELEBRATION PLANS

Kaukauna—Further discussion of plans for a two-day celebration to be staged here July 3 and 4 took place at a meeting of Kaukauna Post No. 41, American Legion, in their club rooms on Oak-st Tuesday evening. Reports of the Outagamie-co and the Oconto-co joint council meeting at Gillett last week also were heard.

STUDENTS COMPLETE FINAL EXAMINATIONS

Kaukauna—Students of the high school Tuesday completed their final examinations. Examinations were given Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning. Tuesday afternoon the students returned the books loaned to them at the beginning of the term. Reports will be mailed to the students next week.

LUTHERAN SCHOOL TO GRADUATE 20 PUPILS

Kaukauna — Twenty pupils of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran school will be graduated at a commencement program in the Lutheran school auditorium at 7:45 Wednesday evening, according to Theodore Boettcher, principal. Included in the graduation exercises will be music, songs, an address by Rev. F. Brandt Appleton, and distribution of diplomas by Rev. Paul Th. Oehlert, pastor of the Lutheran church.

SOFTBALLERS WIN

Kaukauna — Holy Cross parochial softballers took a 11 to 6 victory from the St. Therese team of Appleton on the local diamond Tuesday afternoon. Bauer and Steffens worked as the Holy Cross battery. The team is coached by Rev. A. Schmitz.

KAUKAUNA BALL TEAM MEETS KIMBERLY NEXT

Kaukauna—Kimberly at the Parkmaker's park is the bill for the Electric city baseball team next Sunday. Kimberly holds a 2 to 2 decision over the Kaws, scored earlier in the season. Manager Marty Lamers started working his team Tuesday for the Kimberly fracas. It is possible that the Kaw lineup will show several new faces next Sunday, as some of the college baseball stars are returning to play with the Kaws. Myron Esler of Seton Hall, N. J., and Ray Smith, who is attending the University of Maine, are two of the newcomers who may see action with the Kaukauna team Sunday.

FILLING COMPLETED ON PART OF FIELD

Kaukauna — Filling along the retaining wall on the south side of the high school athletic field was completed Tuesday by city workmen. Trucks were used to haul the ground from a slight grade on Crooks-ave. Wednesday workmen were hauling ground to the west side of the field to complete the filling there. When all of the clay filling has been hauled, a topping of black ground will be placed and seeded.

GUERNSEY BREEDERS TO HOLD PICNIC

Outagamie-co Will Send Two Delegates to Friday's Meeting

Outagamie-co Guernsey breeders will send two delegations to a gathering of state breeders Friday at the Lawson farm on Highway 26 two miles north of Rosendale, and about 14 miles southwest of Oshkosh. One delegation will leave Greenville Grange and travel over Highway 26. The other will leave Appleton and travel over Highway 41 to Oshkosh and then over 26 to the meeting place. Both groups will leave at 10 o'clock.

Speakers will be C. B. Finley, fieldman for the American Guernsey Cattle club and Lester Stevens, new president of the American Guernsey Cattle club. The county delegation is being formed under direction of Stanley Jamison, club secretary, and Gustav A. Sell, county agent.
